

Action Delayed On LaFollette's Relief Program

Duncan Thinks Governor Won't Offer More Bills

OUTLINES AID PLAN

Moves Started to Split Highway Safety, Relief Measures

Madison—(U)—The legislature met briefly again today, delayed action on the administration's relief bill, and evoked from Thomas M. Duncan, Governor LaFollette's financial secretary, the comment that the governor probably won't give the legislators any more work.

On motion of administration chairman of the joint finance committee, the assembly set the $3,000,000 relief bill as a special order of business at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and the senate scheduled the bill and a correctional income tax measure for Thursday morning.

Asked whether he thought the lawmakers would receive any further legislation through amendment of the governor's bill, Duncan said, "I don't think they will. I don't think they want anything else."

Duncan said a 10-page housing bill which the federal government has submitted to the governor was too complicated and probably would not reach the legislature.

Want Separate Bills

In both the assembly and senate, movements were on foot to separate a highway safety program appropriation from the general relief-tax bill.

Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimons (D), Fond du Lac, submitted a separate bill to appropriate $100,000 annually for highway safety instruction in public schools. The administration bill provides a lump sum of $500,000 now and $750,000 a year hereafter for safety work, including marking of roads.

Assemblyman Martin Franzkowski (D), Milwaukee, handed in a bill proposing to increase income taxes to raise relief funds. The measure was sent to the revision committee for a decision whether it is admissible under the governor's call, which specifically listed increases and extensions of gift and inheritance taxes as the only revenue sources.

The state administration was committed to a "fire department" system of relief.

Duncan told legislative committee yesterday the administration intended to use the $3,000,000 appropriation specified in the special session relief bill "to respond to distress calls."

Although representatives of the Wisconsin County Boards association and the League of Wisconsin Municipalities proposed an amendment dividing the money to pay 10 per cent of the relief cost in each "blanket" appropriation.

The administration bill, he said, "commits the state to what may be called a fire department relief system of putting out distress wherever it appears and dealing with individual cases where necessary."

Instead of allocating funds to each county, he said, the state would "give aid to those units unable otherwise to meet their relief needs."

Won't Bar Work Relief

The bill would not bar use of such money for work relief, Duncan said. The measure extends and increases gift and inheritance taxes.

A. J. Thelen, legislative representative of the county boards, submitted amendments calling for state payment of 10 per cent of the costs and 100 per cent of relief for indigents, appropriating $200,000 to northern counties for repayment of merchants who advanced credit, leaving determination of relief eligibility to the local units, and permitting reimbursement of counties for hospitalization of relief patients.

F. N. MacMillin, secretary of the municipalities league, declared the state should pay 50 per cent of relief costs, or about $6,500,000 for the biennium, but two members of the assembly.

ACCUSES CIO

Henry Ohl, Jr., president of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, in his opening address at the state convention at Manitowoc, today urged caution in any move looking for unity with the CIO, warning that the "price" may be too heavy and that the federation may "again be betrayed."

2 Battalions are Reported Wiped Out Near Cordoba

Spanish Government Forces Report Making Important Gains

Madrid—(U)—Annihilation of two insurgent battalions was reported today from the far southern war front, midway between Cordoba and Badajoz, where government forces thrust forward in important gains.

Government dispatches declared one insurgent battalion was destroyed at Sina in a government counter-attack following an insurgent advance protected by a heavy artillery barrage.

A second battalion, rushed up to reinforce weakened defenses of Granja de Torrehermosa, was wiped out where the government battle lines balloon outward to within 100 miles of the Portuguese frontier.

Strategic government gains were reported in the region, 75 miles northwest of Cordoba, where activity has been relatively slight recently while government and insurgent forces concentrated on northern battlefields.

(Government gains were disputed, however, by an insurgent communiqué that declared government counter-attacks had been repulsed in the Granja de Torrehermosa sector and in the nearby Sierra de Tejenera mountains.)

Government troops were reported to have taken heights dominating the vital east-west Penarroya railway and houses of the outskirts of Granja de Torrehermosa while cavalry forces were striking at insurgent lines that cut the road at Azuaga, 10 miles south.

Insurgent defenses in the Sierra de Tejenera were stormed and a large ammunition dump captured.

The government's southern campaign, striking west toward Badajoz on the Portuguese border, is aimed at cutting insurgent transportation lines from southern ports and from Seville.

2000 Weren't Chosen

An official song for New York city is still a dream for Mayor La Guardia. Of more than 2000 songs submitted in a recent competition the judges found none entirely satisfactory. In the meantime songs like "The Side of New York" may serve as a stop gap. Music appropriate for Appleton is constantly being played on musical instruments bought through the Post-Crescent War Ad. A sale was rung up with the following:

Consider Price Of Unity With CIO, Ohl Asks

Urges Followers to Move Carefully to Avoid New 'Betrayal'

POINTS TO GROWTH

Report Costello Will Demand Seat at Manitowoc Convention

Manitowoc—(U)—Henry Ohl, Jr., urged today that the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, in considering any proposal for unity with the CIO, move carefully lest "we again be betrayed."

"Those who urge the officers of our federation, for the sake of unity to 'make peace with the CIO' should also consider what price we are to pay, and having made it, whether we shall have peace and unity in fact, or shall be again betrayed," Ohl, federation president, said in addressing the opening session of the A. F. of L.'s forty-fifth annual state convention.

Ohl reviewed the compromise policy adopted by last year's convention and charged the "CIO deliberately violated" it. He added:

"We have had conferences with men from the CIO when they again promised to work with the state federation in carrying out the instructions of our conventions. Again promises meant nothing to the CIO."

"We ask in all sincerity, would another promise of Wisconsin unionists be any more binding than their previous assurances? Resolutions that the state federation establish unity should be so drafted that we may be certain it does not mean a surrender and giving condonation to prevalent destructive practices."

As the convention began, reports were current that Emil Costello, temporary state CIO chairman recently expelled from the American Federation of Labor by order of President William Green, was coming to demand a seat as a Kenosha Simmons Co. union delegate.

Decision Secret

The credentials committee declined to discuss its decision in advance of the report, but there were rumors it had refused to seat Costello and five other Simmons union delegates.

Another report said D. G. Johnson of the Kenosha Hod Carriers' union would be denied a seat. Johnson has offered two resolutions proposing efforts be made to effect peace with the CIO.

"It's a lie," J. H. Handley state federation secretary-treasurer, said of these reports. "Someone's trying to stir up trouble."

Ohl told the convention "we are living in times of extreme stress and yet of greatest opportunity."

"We are menaced by rebellion—yet, in intelligence and numerical strength, we are safer than before."

There are elements of opposition that seek our destruction, but there is a tremendously increased understanding and sympathy with legitimate labor's cause."

We have been lied about, maligned, and slandered—yet we have grown in numbers, influence, and prestige."

Women Pack Hall For First Lecture Of Charm School

Additional Seating Facilities to be Provided for 2nd Lesson Tonight

White-haired matrons and young schoolgirls, smartly clad business women and busy housewives mingled in the crowd that filled Castle hall at the corner of E. Lawrence and S. Morrison streets to capacity and left only standing room Monday night at the first session of the Appleton Post-Crescent charm school. Because a number of women were turned away, about 100 additional chairs will be provided tonight.

They heard Janette Serree, national authority on the art of self-improvement, tell them that it was not the proportions of a woman's figure but her philosophy of life that made her charming. They applauded the informality with which she drank a pint of milk before the audience to prove that she did follow her own teachings that women should drink more milk. They saw a style show and fashion clinic that included everything from foundation garments to a dream of an evening ensemble—a monk's hood wrap of brilliant red velvet over a bright blue satin gown, with two huge flowers, in shades of red.

Eau Claire Man Denies Guilt on Arson Charge

Eau Claire—(U)—Eugene M. Voss, 27, of Eau Claire, pleaded guilty in county court yesterday to a charge of arson. Judge George L. Blum bound him over to circuit court for sentence, under bond of $1,000.

A plea of not guilty was entered by Lacey Smith, 30, also of Eau Claire, in a similar charge. His trial was set for next Monday with bond at $5,000.

Voss and Smith were arrested on complaint of Gilbert Gilbertson, deputy state fire marshal. He charged that on the night of Sept. 15 the defendants burned a farm home which Smith was buying on a land contract, and which he had insured for $1,000.

Postal Inspector Tries To Link Two Burglaries

Chicago—(U)—A. A. Imus, chief postal inspector of the Chicago district, said last night that he was seeking to learn if there was a similarity of clues between post office burglaries in Chicago, Wis., and suburban Melrose Park.

In both burglaries the thieves obtained several thousand dollars worth of stamps and the safes were opened with an acetylene torch. Imus pointed out.

The Clintonville post office was burglarized early Saturday of an estimated $10,000 in stamps and cash. Two gunmen who fled in a stolen car were believed to be the robbers. One suspect was detained for questioning.

Negro Murder Suspect Arrested at St. Paul

Milwaukee—(U)—Detective Vance Chamberlain left yesterday for St. Paul, Minn., to bring back John Jones, Jr., Negro charged with the murder of Claude Morris, 42, also a Negro.

The two men engaged in a fight over a woman, police said, Jones drawing a gun, Morris a knife. Morris died of gunshot wounds Sept. 11. Jones was arrested by St. Paul police.

200,000 American Legionnaires March Up 5th Avenue in Magnificent Parade

New York—(U)—More than 200,000 veterans of the great war marched up Fifth avenue today in the greatest parade this city of notable parades, vast and magnificent spectacles, has ever known.

It was not just another American Legion convention parade, another long trek under arms to the battle of drums and the blare of bugles up the broad avenue under the windows of the biggest buildings in the world.

To thousands it was a homecoming after 18 years, and it brought a resurgence of those feelings of happiness and gratitude that marked the victory marches of 1918. These same men, now older, grayer, stouter, slower, were then striding with hard muscles and weather-beaten faces fresh from winning the artillery and the trenches in France or newly come from the

Hull Protests Tokio Plan to Bomb Nanking

Says Attack Would Violate International and Humanitarian Laws

U. S. HELPS LEAGUE

Membership on Committee Is Limited to Consultative Basis

Geneva—(U)—Both Japan and China today were invited to participate in League of Nations committee consideration of Chinese accusations branding Japan an aggressor nation in the Far Eastern conflict.

Similar invitations were extended Germany and Australia—the latter presumably because of her vital interest in matters affecting the Pacific.

The committee quickly adjourned until Monday to await replies from the four invited nations.

Washington—(U)—Secretary Hull announced today the United States had made representations to Japan in protest against that nation's announced intention to bomb Nanking from the air.

Through Ambassador Joseph C. Grew at Tokio and Japanese Ambassador Hiroshi Saito in Washington, the state department conveyed to the Japanese foreign office its opposition to the threatened aerial attack.

Hull said the protest was based chiefly on the grounds that the bombing of noncombatant populations was in violation of international and humanitarian laws.

Moreover, he said the American government protested against the threatened action because it might be calculated to interfere with normal relations between this government and China by endangering American diplomatic representatives in the Chinese capital.

Aboard Gunboats

Nelson T. Johnson, American ambassador to China, already has taken refuge with part of his staff at Nanking aboard the American gunboats Luzon and Guam.

The American representations were conveyed to Japan a short time after the Japanese command general in China had distributed a warning to all foreign government representatives in Nanking to leave the capital by noon today (Chinese time) or risk grave personal danger from aerial attack.

The United States collaborated with the League of Nations today for the second time in five years in considering a Sino-Japanese conflict.

Marking a significant phase of American policy in the undeclared war in the Orient, the state department instructed Leland Harrison, minister to Switzerland, to represent it on the league's advisory committee when it takes up China's protest tonight against Japanese aggression.

The United States is not a league member and ordinarily does not participate in its political activities. It made clear that American membership on the advisory committee will be limited strictly to a consultative basis and that the American representative will not vote.

Makes Arrangements For Governor's Party

Madison—(U)—Conservation Director H. W. MacKenzie was in northern Wisconsin today making arrangements for Governor LaFollette's fishing party this weekend with Governors Nelson G. Kraschel of Iowa and Henry Horner of Illinois.

The party will be housed in a conservation department field headquarters at some spot as yet undesignated and the governors will be aided in their quest for muskies, pike and bass by wardens, who should know where to get them.

Governor Kraschel, accompanied by his secretary, Robert B. Hingard, and Adjutant General Paul Macdonald, will be met at the state line Thursday evening and escorted to Madison by Adjutant General Ralph M. Immell.

Governor Horner, accompanied by John Casey, Illinois official, will arrive from Chicago the same night by train. After breakfast at the executive mansion Friday morning the party will leave for the north.

Director MacKenzie reported that the big fish are on their fall feeding rampage.

Coal Operators to Face U. S. Charges

'Other Individuals' in Kentucky Also May be Indicted

Washington—(U)—The justice department said today it would ask a federal grand jury at Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 29 to indict "certain" Hanlan county coal operators and other individuals on charges of interfering with the civil rights of Kentucky coal miners.

The decision to seek the indictments follows completion of an investigation by federal agents in Hanlan county which Attorney General Cummings ordered after he received complaints from Senator LaFollette (R-Wis.), chairman of a senate labor sub-committee, and John L. Lewis, leader of the Committee on Industrial Organization.

The department declined to disclose how many persons would be involved.

Two special assistants to Attorney General Cummings have been in Kentucky since Sept. 1, the department said.

Black Reported Aboard Ship for Homebound Cruise

London—(U)—Justice Hugo L. Black of the United States Supreme court said a usually reliable source today said secretly for home yesterday.

He boarded the Cry of Norfolk at Southampton this afternoon. Line offices at London and Southampton said they had no record of reservations for him but one official, who had passengers' names, said it was possible that the justice made private arrangements with the captain. A quick check through the boat did not disclose his presence.

The ship is due at Norfolk, Va., Sept. 29 and at Baltimore on Sept. 30.

The justice checked out of his hotel yesterday and left for an undisclosed destination, still without comment on published American newspaper accounts that he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

After Serving at Wapman

Wapman—(U)—P. E. Toohy, 79, formerly of Menard, Ill., was arrested at the gates of the state's prison here yesterday when he was released after serving a one-year term for assault. Illinois parole authorities requested Toohy's arrest and return to face parole violation charges extending back to 1930. Toohy said he planned to resist extradition. He was held in county jail pending a hearing.

Gen. Denhardt Slain in Kentucky; Brothers of Dead Fiancee are Jailed

SHOT TO DEATH

Brigadier General Henry H. Denhardt (above), who was to have gone on trial today for the second time on charges of murdering his fiancée, was shot to death last night at Shelbyville, Ky. Three brothers of Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, whom Denhardt has been accused of slaying, are held in jail on murder charges.

Jap and Chinese Fliers in Aerial Fight Over Canton

At Least Six Nipponese Planes are Reported Shot Down

Hong Kong—(U)—Daring, death-defying aviators fought today the first great aerial battle of the Sino-Japanese war over Canton, South China city 100 miles to the north of this British-occupied city.

At least six, possibly ten, Japanese planes crashed in twisting, diving dog fights. One Chinese pursuit plane was seen to crash in flames. Others also may have fallen.

A bomb demolished the Tingo aviation school administration building. Other bombs narrowly missed the Saichuen cement works. A number of civilians were reported killed.

A fleet of 21 Japanese raiding ships started the battle, appearing at early morning in an offensive directed against the far South China city.

Ten planes made a second attack shortly after noon.

Residents along the Canton river front had a thrilling view of the combat.

Jap Planes Shot Down

Only half of the squadron of 21 actually reached Canton itself, Chinese said. Others were brought down by defending Chinese pursuit planes and artillery fire from forts in the Canton area.

2 Plead Innocent of Threatening Officer

Chippewa Falls—(U)—Thomas McLaughlin, 19, and Marvin Schmidt, 18, of New Richmond, pleaded innocent yesterday when arraigned before County Judge Dayton Cook on charges of assault with intent to kill. Preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 4.

McLaughlin and Schmidt are charged with threatening Patrolman John Hedrick with a revolver Saturday when he arrested them on suspicion.

Confesses Shooting

Patrolman Jephtha Tracey said Roy Garr admitted firing the fatal shots. He was jailed along with his two brothers, Dr. E. S. Garr and Jack Garr.

Tracey said Roy Garr declared "I did it" as he turned over a .45 caliber revolver with two shells discharged.

The killing occurred after Denhardt and one of his attorneys, Rodes K. Myers of Bowling Green, had ended a conference regarding the scheduled trial today at nearby New Castle.

Myers, who was with Denhardt, said the firing began as "we started across the street to the hotel."

Describes Shooting

"When I told General Denhardt there are the Garr boys," Denhardt ran toward the hotel and I darted in another direction. The first two shots missed. Another struck the general in the back and he fell near the hotel entrance."

Myers said Roy Garr shouted "You are the — who killed my sister and I am going to kill you."

One of the brothers approached him, Myers said.

He said he raised his hands and pleaded "please don't shoot me. I haven't done anything to you."

"You are the — who defended the — who killed my sister," the attorney quoted the brother as shouting.

Another version of the assassination was given by 13-year-old Bruce Tracey, one of the few persons on the street at the time.

He said he was walking behind Denhardt and Myers when he saw three men get out of a motor car and "started toward Myers and the general."

At the first shot, Tracey said, Denhardt ran toward the hotel and Myers fell down the street. The general fell on the steps leading to the hotel entrance.

He said one of the men walked to the prostrate body of the general and shot him again.

"Another man pointed a pistol at Myers, who had come back with his hands up," the boy declared.

Coroner D. F. Lapsley returned a verdict that Denhardt died from a "bullet wound through the head and another through the heart."

An undertaker, however, said Denhardt had been wounded seven times.

Former Lieutenant Governor Shot on Eve Of Trial

CASE OFF RECORDS

Murder Warrants Served On Prisoners In Jail

Shelbyville, Ky.—(U)—The three brothers of comely Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor were charged today with murdering Brigadier General Henry H. Denhardt after vengeful bullets had taken forever from a jury the question as to whether the portly, 61-year-old veteran of three wars had killed his 40-year-old fiancée.

The bald former Kentucky lieutenant governor and adjutant general was to have gone on trial for a second time today for slaying. His first trial last April ended with a jury's report it was deadlocked at seven to five for acquittal.

With that case wiped off the court's records, Kentucky law that brought the general to justice moved against the pretty LaGrange, Ky., widow's brothers, Roy, Jack and Dr. E. S. Garr, who waited quietly and noncommittally in the Shelby county jail here on charges they killed the general last night.

The murder warrants were sworn to by County Attorney Coleman Wright, who said arraignment before County Judge H. F. Walters was deferred until Friday to allow Rodes K. Myers, chief of Denhardt's counsel, time to return the general's body to Bowling Green, Ky.

Warrants Served

The warrants were served on the Garr brothers in jail by Sheriff Forrest Barnes.

Wright said the grand jury would convene Oct. 4. What action the commonwealth would take against the Garrs rests with the body. Major crimes are prosecuted only on indictments in Kentucky.

Circuit Judge Charles C. Marshall, who presided over General Denhardt's first trial, commented of the general's slaying in front of a Shelbyville hotel:

"It was a terrible tragedy."

In the court at New Castle today the murder charge against Denhardt was formally called up for second trial.

"I wish to call the court's attention to the death last night of the defendant and request that the prosecution be dismissed," Commonwealth's Attorney H. B. Kinsolving, Jr., said.

"Granted," replied Judge Marshall and signed the formal order.

The three brothers surrendered immediately after the shooting, which occurred on the main street of the rich, small tobacco town in the blue hills.

Denhardt, "stormy petrel" of Kentucky politics, who had survived three wars and had been wounded in a political controversy in Bowling Green in 1931, died of several bullet wounds without making a statement.

Chinese Capital Awaits Japanese Attack From Air

Ambassador, Staff Aboard Gunboat for Trip Up Yangtze

BY C. YATES McDANIEL
Nanking—United States Ambassador Nelson Johnson and his staff evacuated the Chinese capital today with the expiration of the Japanese ultimatum that foreign lives would not be spared in their efforts to destroy "the base of Chinese resistance."

Three hours after the hour of grace passed at noon, not a Japanese plane had appeared over the tensely silent city but the United States Gunboat Luzon with the ambassador and his staff sailed up the Yangtze.

J. Paxton Hall, veteran embassy second secretary, remained on duty at the legation as the volunteer protector of American interests. With him were 17 American civilians holding the building against the threat of devastating Japanese aerial bombardment.

The gunboat Guam remained at her anchorage in the river to guard the American residents remaining in the city from the danger implied by Japanese indications that only the utter destruction of the Chinese capital would end their raids.

Volunteers To Stay
The Luzon had full steam was up for a run up the river beyond the 11-mile safety limit set by Vice Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, commander of the Japanese China fleet.

Hall volunteered to stay at his post, however, and with my wife, William took over the embassy building. We are without servants but have sufficient food supplies for three months. There are only four women in our group and no children.

The American embassy and the Italian embassy were the only two to heed the Japanese warning that to remain in the capital might mean death. Other foreign diplomats refused to evacuate and counter-warned that the Japanese government would be held responsible for any damage to their nationals or property.

Italians On Warship
The Italian move was considered to be dictated by the friendly relations between Rome and Tokio. The Italians, however, moved their quarters only to a warship in the river and will make daily trips to the embassy.

A disagreement on policy was believed to have arisen between Ambassador Johnson and Admiral Hasegawa. Yarnell, commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, Yarnell was known to be strongly against any yielding to the Japanese threat and was thought to have opposed Johnson's evacuation of the embassy.

Soft-slipped Chinese—our servants among them—were fleeing the city by the thousands. They rushed quietly through the gloomy streets to the bomb-proof caves scooped out of the nearby hills. The walls of all buildings have been painted dark gray or black to make them less visible from the air; private automobiles as well as official cars and public conveyances have been given a coat of dark paint.

On every vacant lot the squat entrances of bomb-proof cellars stuck up like snub noses and there was scarcely a private dwelling house owner had not managed to construct some sort of cellar.

If it was not for the electric air of nervous tension, Nanking would seem like a great city waiting for death.

at the low V neckline. And they had a good time in a thoroughly feminine way.

Wearing a sheer black dress with yards and yards of ruffles, and a pair of gay red gloves, Miss Serree pleaded with the women not to be too sensible. A little recklessness, she said, was good for the spirit.

It is an 11-year old tradition in her charm school for her to say, "Good evening, ladies. How are you?" And then to have them answer, "Happy." There are only two groups of women who don't recite that, incidentally the very old, and that, incidentally is a matter independent of the number of candles which may have appeared on your last birthday cake, and the ones that are just hard to get along with, that wouldn't have a good time to save their lives.

If the lilting "Happy" which came from the audience last night in response to Miss Serree's question is any indication, the women of Appleton and vicinity are very young and extremely easy to get along with.

'Guard Your Thoughts'
"Choose to be charming and then bend everything in your world to that effect," Miss Serree advised. "Guard your thoughts to the best of your ability, and replace your fears, hates, anxieties and jealousies with courage, faith and good cheer. It has been said that the consciousness of charm is the greatest secret of poise."

You can't turn on charm the way you can turn on water, she continued, urging her listeners not to have company manners, company clothes or company linens. She told of a woman who bought a new dress and then hung it in a closet to wait for an occasion to wear it. She wore it only a few times that season, when it was in high fashion, and did not begin to wear it generally until it was out of style. "Today is the day to live," Miss Serree declared. Rise each day with joy, challenge, delight, and give to the day usefulness, beauty and meaning. Use your best silver and china every day. After all, your family is more to you than anyone else. Don't wait for the dream of the time you're going to be happy and let this day pass by. The days, the weeks, the years pass, and pretty soon it doesn't matter any more."

Morning Important
How to be charming in the morning when your husband doesn't like the way his eggs are fried or you wonder why the children don't eat more came in for some special attention.

"Put a smile on your face in the morning if it cracks it," was rule No. 1 as given by the charm school instructor. Rule No. 2 is to wear something crisp and fresh, and since Miss Serree believes in illustrating her maxims whenever possible, there appeared on the stage at that time two young women in immaculate morning-gown frocks from the Unique Frocks Shoppe, designed to be worn in a hurry, they closed down the front with zippers. One was yellow, the other blue, and both had starched white collars and cuffs.

Just before the intermission Miss Serree drank her bottle of milk, maintaining that every woman should drink as much as a quart a day for energy and the improvement of her teeth, the texture of her skin and her body chemistry. "It's quite impolite and very bad manners," she said gaily as she raised the bottle to her lips, "but you're young and not entirely sensible and won't mind, I'm sure."

Linger Their Muscles
They didn't mind. They liked it, and they thought it was fun, too, when she had them all stand up and limber the muscles in their necks and shoulders by throwing their heads first forward, then back and then to the sides.

There was music during the intermission, as there had been preceding Miss Serree's lecture, by Edward Dix, Menasha, member of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music staff, who played piano selections. In the style show and fashion clinic which followed the intermission there were shown foundation garments not only for the average figure but also for the petite figure, the tall figure and the fuller figure. One Person Hurt In 3 Automobile Crashes in City

Harry McLeod Injures Finger and Arm in Accident Early Today

One person was hurt in three traffic mishaps in Appleton yesterday and early today. Harry McLeod, 32, 816 W. Winnebago street, suffered a cut right finger and a bruised arm when the car in which he was a passenger collided with a second machine at the intersection of College avenue and Mason street at 6:30 this morning. Drivers of the cars were J. T. Kern, 56 High street, Oshkosh, and Melton Le Mayne, 1908 Bouton street.

A car owned by William C. Wing, Jr., 18 Bellaire court, and driven by Dale Prink, 502 N. Durkee street, was involved in a collision at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon with a machine driven by Robert Peotter, 826 W. Lorain street, at the corner of N. Meade and E. Pacific street. Prink was driving east on Pacific street and Peotter was going south on N. Meade when the accident occurred. Both cars were slightly damaged, but none was injured.

Two persons by Martin Bruesewitz, 729 N. Meade street, and a bicycle driven by David Smith, 720 E. Maple street, collided at 11:15 Monday morning at the intersection of W. Prospect avenue and S. Oneida street. Bruesewitz turned left to go west on W. Prospect avenue when the collision took place, police said.

Furs Are Shown
Fur coats, provided by the courtesy of F. J. Grist, included a mink coat, luxurious in its fullness, a youthful Krimmer lamb, the always dashing leopard, a black caracul from southern Russia, black seal, American broadtail from the Argentine and sleek, durable otter.

Before she closed school for the day, Miss Serree expounded to her audience something of her theory of diet. Food, she explained, leaves ashes in the process of combustion and these ashes are either alkaline or acid. Although the average person should eat four times as much food leaving alkaline ash as food leaving acid ash, he usually does just the opposite, Miss Serree pointed out.

"In order to digest proteins, such as meat, cheese and eggs, it is necessary that the digestive process be dominantly acid," she said. "To digest starches, such as potatoes, rice, sugar and breads, the digestive process should be dominantly alkaline. If you combine these two types of food, you are asking the stomach to be both acid and alkaline at the same time, and the result is imperfect digestion, drowsiness and heartburn."

Likes Gray Hair
In response to a query in the question box as to what to do about gray hair, Miss Serree answered, "Get so that you like gray hair rather than despise it. No matter how much money you may spend on it to keep it colored, you will deceive no one but yourself. Concentrate on your figure and your thoughts. Gray hair is distinguished."

Miss Serree's own dark hair is generously threaded with gray, and she likes it so well that she has a blue rinse with her shampoo to make the white hairs stand out.

At the second session of her charm school at 8 o'clock tonight, Miss Serree will deal with posture, how to stand, sit and walk to get into and out of a chair gracefully, overcoming timidity and gaining poise and cultivation of a good speaking voice. Mrs. Edward Verbrick, president of the auxiliary to the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be hostess tonight. Miss Lynda Hollenbeck, past state president of Wisconsin Federation of Business and Professional Women, introduced the speaker last night. Don Gerlach, local musician, will play the piano tonight.

Mrs. Jim Dunkel, 322 S. Badger avenue, became the owner of an I. E. S. lamp, donated by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company, when gifts were awarded at the close of the session. Others who received gifts were Mrs. F. J. Miller, 814 E. Washington street, 2 pairs of hosiery; Pettibone-Peabody company; Miss Laura Bohm, 219 N. Oneida street, box of Oake candy; Hulda Ladwig, 807 W. College avenue, apron. Unique Frocks Shoppe; Mrs. E. Kuck, 1220 E. Pacific street, 12 riding lessons; Appleton Riding club; Mrs. C. Munson, 426 E. Maple street, bouquet of flowers; Riverside Greenhouse; Mrs. Bernice Borchardt, 513 N. Appleton street, silver serving forks; Goodman's Jewelers; and Miss Gertrude Mittag, 382 W. Commercial street, bouquet of flowers, Riverside Greenhouse.

at the low V neckline. And they had a good time in a thoroughly feminine way.

Wearing a sheer black dress with yards and yards of ruffles, and a pair of gay red gloves, Miss Serree pleaded with the women not to be too sensible. A little recklessness, she said, was good for the spirit.

It is an 11-year old tradition in her charm school for her to say, "Good evening, ladies. How are you?" And then to have them answer, "Happy." There are only two groups of women who don't recite that, incidentally the very old, and that, incidentally is a matter independent of the number of candles which may have appeared on your last birthday cake, and the ones that are just hard to get along with, that wouldn't have a good time to save their lives.

If the lilting "Happy" which came from the audience last night in response to Miss Serree's question is any indication, the women of Appleton and vicinity are very young and extremely easy to get along with.

'Guard Your Thoughts'
"Choose to be charming and then bend everything in your world to that effect," Miss Serree advised. "Guard your thoughts to the best of your ability, and replace your fears, hates, anxieties and jealousies with courage, faith and good cheer. It has been said that the consciousness of charm is the greatest secret of poise."

You can't turn on charm the way you can turn on water, she continued, urging her listeners not to have company manners, company clothes or company linens. She told of a woman who bought a new dress and then hung it in a closet to wait for an occasion to wear it. She wore it only a few times that season, when it was in high fashion, and did not begin to wear it generally until it was out of style. "Today is the day to live," Miss Serree declared. Rise each day with joy, challenge, delight, and give to the day usefulness, beauty and meaning. Use your best silver and china every day. After all, your family is more to you than anyone else. Don't wait for the dream of the time you're going to be happy and let this day pass by. The days, the weeks, the years pass, and pretty soon it doesn't matter any more."

Morning Important
How to be charming in the morning when your husband doesn't like the way his eggs are fried or you wonder why the children don't eat more came in for some special attention.

"Put a smile on your face in the morning if it cracks it," was rule No. 1 as given by the charm school instructor. Rule No. 2 is to wear something crisp and fresh, and since Miss Serree believes in illustrating her maxims whenever possible, there appeared on the stage at that time two young women in immaculate morning-gown frocks from the Unique Frocks Shoppe, designed to be worn in a hurry, they closed down the front with zippers. One was yellow, the other blue, and both had starched white collars and cuffs.

Just before the intermission Miss Serree drank her bottle of milk, maintaining that every woman should drink as much as a quart a day for energy and the improvement of her teeth, the texture of her skin and her body chemistry. "It's quite impolite and very bad manners," she said gaily as she raised the bottle to her lips, "but you're young and not entirely sensible and won't mind, I'm sure."

Linger Their Muscles
They didn't mind. They liked it, and they thought it was fun, too, when she had them all stand up and limber the muscles in their necks and shoulders by throwing their heads first forward, then back and then to the sides.

There was music during the intermission, as there had been preceding Miss Serree's lecture, by Edward Dix, Menasha, member of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music staff, who played piano selections. In the style show and fashion clinic which followed the intermission there were shown foundation garments not only for the average figure but also for the petite figure, the tall figure and the fuller figure. Churches Begin Winter Schedules Of Services, Work

Young People's Groups Resume Activities After Summer Recess

With most of the church organizations and groups resuming their meetings after a period of inactivity during the summer months, local churches are swinging into their winter schedules of services, programs, missionary work and social activities. A number of young people's groups met for the first time Sunday evening and will continue to hold devotional and social meetings each Sunday during the fall and winter, while nearly all of the women's organizations are holding first meetings this week.

Two young women of The Gospel Temple will leave this week for Springfield, Mo., to enter Central Bible Institute for a 3-year course. They are Miss Adeline Wichman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Wichman, 705 E. Randall street, and Miss Hilda Reiff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fischer, Grace-land avenue. They will leave Thursday with the Rev. and Mrs. C. D. Goudie who will take them to Springfield and then continue on to Kansas City and St. Joseph for a visit with Mr. Goudie's brother. The Goudies will return in a week. The Rev. L. R. Cleveland, Kaukauna, will conduct the service at the temple Thursday night and the Rev. D. N. Carlson, Oshkosh, secretary of the Wisconsin and Northern Michigan districts, will preach next Sunday.

Attend Conference
The Fox River Valley Ministerial quarterly conference of Lutheran churches of the Wisconsin synod which is being held today and Wednesday at Jacksonport, Door county, is attended by the Rev. F. M. Brandt, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran church, who will preach this evening, and by the Rev. E. Ziesemer, pastor of Mt. Olive Lutheran church. The Rev. Philip Froehke, pastor of St. Matthew church, will attend also. Last Sunday Pastor Ziesemer preached at his church on "The Beauties of the Christian Ministry," and the Rev. T. J. Sauer preached at St. Paul church on "To Obey is Better than Sacrifice."

The Winnebago association of Congregational women will hold a Thursday at Waupun from 10 o'clock to the morning until 3:30 in the afternoon. Several Appleton women may attend. Friendly visitation week during which about 90 workers call on all members of the parish will come to a close Friday night when the workers meet at the church. They began their visitations Sunday afternoon. Last Sunday the Rev. John B. Hanna, pastor, preached a sermon, entitled "The Perils of Half-Truths."

A public dinner and supper will be served by women of First English Lutheran church from 11 to 7 o'clock in the evening at Fellowship hall. The Rev. F. C. Reuter, pastor, preached last Sunday morning on "Making the Most of Life."

Union Plans Party
Baptist Young People's Union of First Baptist church will sponsor a hayride party Friday night for young people of the church as well as Lawrence college students of the Baptist denomination. The board of deaconesses of the church will meet at 7:30 Wednesday night at the church. "Learning from the Patriarchs" was the subject of the sermon by the Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor, last Sunday.

Otto Scheib, brother of the Rev. John Scheib of Kaukauna and a student at Mission House seminary at Plymouth, gave the sermon Sunday at First Evangelical and Reformed church. His theme was "The Glory of Jesus." At First Methodist Episcopal church Dr. Gilbert S. Cox, pastor, preached on "The Christian Scale of Values," and at St. John Evangelical and Reformed church the Rev. A. Guenther spoke on "My Duty Toward My Church." An organ recital will be given Wednesday evening at the church for which no admission will be charged.

Preaches at Galesburg
The Rev. John W. Wilson, pastor-at-large for Congregational churches in Wisconsin, preached Sunday morning at Maple Valley and in the evening at Galesburg. At Memorial Presbyterian church the Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor, preached a sermon entitled "The Adjective of Fools." Rally day was observed Sunday at Zion Lutheran Sunday school.

"Matter" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First

Spangler Heads Valley Ministers

Baptist Pastor Succeeds Rev. Robert Bell as President of Group

The Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor of First Baptist church, will head Fox River Valley Ministerial association as the result of election of officers at the first fall meeting Monday noon at the Y. M. C. A. He succeeds the Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church.

Other officers include the Rev. D. E. Bosserman of Trinity English Lutheran church, vice president, and Homer Gebhardt, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. secretary-treasurer. The Rev. W. A. Jacobs, pastor of First Congregational church at Menasha, was named chairman of the program committee, other members being the Rev. A. Guenther of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church, Dr. Gilbert S. Cox of First Methodist Episcopal church, and Mr. Gebhardt.

The association voted to meet the third Monday of each month in the Y. M. C. A. cafeteria, adjoining to the board room for the business meeting and program. One new member, Captain T. A. Raber of the Salvation Army, was admitted yesterday, and the group voted to support the Laymen's Missionary movement and to hold a joint meeting with that body in November.

Leaders in 'Y' Drive

Meet Tomorrow Night

A meeting of the co-majors in the Y.M.C.A. finance and membership drive which will be conducted Oct. 4-11 will be held at 6 o'clock tomorrow night in the 'Y' building. The leaders will list the members of their respective teams. The board of directors who make up the committee for sustaining memberships in the drive will meet Thursday night in the 'Y'.

Church of Christ, Scientist. Among the passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy was the following: "The first idolatry is faith in matter. When we endow matter with vague spiritual power, that is, when we do so in our theories, for of course we cannot really endow matter with what it does not and cannot possess, we disown the Almighty, for such theories lead to one of two things. They either presuppose the self-evolution and self-governance of matter, or else they assume that matter is the product of spirit. Spirit is the only substance and consciousness recognized by divine science."

Lewis and Leaders Of CIO Unions to Hold Conference

Will Meet Oct. 11 in Atlantic City to Outline Their Course

Washington—John L. Lewis and the presidents of 32 unions affiliated with his Committee for Industrial Organization will meet in Atlantic City Oct. 11 to map their future course.

Lewis' summons last night was interpreted generally as preparation for a CIO counter-movement against the American Federation of Labor, which meets Oct. 4 in Denver.

The Atlantic City gathering will be the first general meeting of CIO leaders in months. The bitter controversy between that group and the A. F. of L. has been increased since the last federation meeting by CIO sponsored strikes in the steel and automobile industries.

Those developments led to predictions in A. F. of L. quarters last night that both Secretary of Labor Perkins and Chairman Madden of the labor relations board may be dropped from the convention's invitation list.

Miss Perkins and Madden both have been criticized by some A. F. of L. leaders who have declared their activities indicated partiality for the CIO.

President William Green of the federation took another step in the intra-union controversy by announcing restoration of a chapter to the international Spinners union. The union was suspended in 1919 after it had refused to join with the United Textile workers.

Green sought to retaliate against the CIO in the case of the American Newspaper Guild, which has approved dropping its A. F. of L. charter for CIO affiliation.

He said "experienced and capable organizers" would be assigned to organize editorial and news writers into unions apart from the guild.

Weidman Will Direct Boys Athletics at 'Y'

Don Weidman, Lawrence college student and member of last year's football squad, has been hired as boys' physical education director at the Y. M. C. A. Homer Gebhardt, general secretary, announced today.

He will be the eleventh Lawrence college student added to the staff at the Y. M. C. A. this fall. Will Beck, William Karll, and Harold Nelson are employed in the cafeteria, Al Haak, Sterling Schoen, Robert Woodward, and Robert Lloyd in the boys' department, and Carlton Grode, Joe Maertzweller, and Frank Schubert in 'Y' community work.

WILL ATTEND MEETING

F. R. Gehrke, manager of the state employment office here, will attend a meeting of managers of offices in Fox River valley cities tonight in Beaver Dam. Eight men will be present at the meeting.

Isolate Vitamin Substance Which Cures Pellagra

Discovery Revealed by University of Wisconsin Scientists

Madison—(AP)—Two University of Wisconsin scientists announced today they have isolated a pure crystalline form of nicotinic acid, a vitamin substance which prevents and cures pellagra—a skin disease that attacks both muscles and nerves of humans and some animals.

Professor C. A. Elvehjem and his assistant, Robert J. Madden, agricultural chemists, revealed the discovery after they had demonstrated usefulness of the compound which was found in small amounts in various plant and animal tissues.

Pellagra is described scientifically as an "erythematous skin affection, with severe constitutional and nervous symptoms." It was first noted in Northern Italy, but now is common in southern United States.

Dogs afflicted with black tongue disease, which scientists agree is the canine counterpart of human pellagra, were used in the experiments conducted here. Professor Elvehjem said the animals were cured with feedings of as little as 30 milligrams of the new substance.

Several hospitals in the south, he added, are asking permission to use the crystals to treat pellagra patients. He said the disease is most common among negroes and poor whites.

Although one source of nicotinic acid is the tobacco plant, the scientists declared there is "no reason for jumping to the conclusion that smoking, or chewing will prevent pellagra."

They explained the substance is present, and therefore probably essential, in one of the enzymes that transfers oxygen from the blood to the cells of the body. Animals apparently cannot build the vitamin from food compounds but must get it in ready-made.

3 Wisconsin Truckmen Given Carrier Permits

Washington—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission has authorized three Wisconsin truckmen to operate as common motor carriers.

E. A. Vandenberg, Baldwin, will operate between points in Wisconsin and Stillwater, South St. Paul and Minneapolis; Alfred Rufener, Hartford, from points in Wisconsin to Freeport, Ill.; and Louis J. Finn, River Falls, between River Falls and points in Wisconsin and South St. Paul, St. Paul, Stillwater, Minneapolis, Hastings and Red Wing, Minn.

Pending further action, the commission stayed the authorization of the Globe Express and Storage Co., Milwaukee, to operate as an interstate motor carrier.

Pegler Presents Diary Of Liberal 'Influence'

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Lines from the diary of a great liberalizing influence—June 8.—Awful tired all day. Out all night flogging Hyman Cohen, the clothes presser, for taking business away from Klansman Jones. Ten of us in masks and robes grabbed him out of his house at 1 a. m., rode him 20 miles out in the country, and beat him with straps until he collapsed.

Pegler

Let him walk back. Very inspiring to me, and my physical fatigue today is no price at all to pay for the marvelous spiritual elation which I have felt. Never will I forget the disgusting shrieks of Cohen's wife and children in the dark. Place smelled of garlic. Revolting and very un-American.

June 26.—Attended Kloro last night and heard inspiring addresses by Kleagle, Kligrapp and great exalted Kludd. Took measures to preserve American standards of justice in impending trial of two of our members for murder. Seems they shot a town marshal in Hickory Center for interfering with the Americanization of a Catholic named Murphy by the tar-and-feather ritual. Our two brothers have been indicted as a matter of form, although the prosecuting attorney, of course, is klannish and will protest American ideals in the trial by presenting a weak case. Nevertheless to guarantee the preservation of American justice in the trial, we have arranged to place seven klansmen on the jury.

July 12.—I have been swelling with pride all day. My klannishness is the greatest, most purifying spiritual force of all my life. Last night six of us quietly went to the home of the Smith woman who calls herself a widow. Good-looking blonde with two children and no visible means of support, although she claims to have $1,800 life insurance from her husband's death. The wife of one of our members came to klonvokation and secretly informed us that the Smith woman was seen talking to a married man on East Oak street after dark twice in one week. Plain case of attempting to wreck an American home.

She Was Convicted

On Word Of Klanswoman

So six of us grabbed her last night, took her up in the hills, and by the light of a fiery cross stripped all her clothes off, smeared her with tar, sprinkled her with feathers, and burned a scarlet letter on her forehead with acid. She screamed that she was an innocent victim of female jealousy, but she was convicted on the word of a klanswoman representing the highest type of 100 per cent American womanhood.

July 22.—I suppose it is overambitious of me, but I hope to get in a position some day, where I can place a real American interpretation on the laws for the education of the children. Believe me, I will abolish the teaching of alien foreign Roman popishness in private schools. And while Americanism could rest assured that the federal government will never again interfere with the administration of true justice like it did in the Scottsboro case.

Aug. 3.—Been having Negro trouble lately around here. Fresh negroes won't work for 75 cents a day, demanding up to a dollar and a quarter. Half a dozen of our members complained of a serious situation, demanding that we send them to toad gang for looting when work is available at good wages. But that would only arouse some un-American lawyer to defend them on strained constitutional grounds and cause endless trouble. I proposed

Boy, 4, Falls While At Play, Breaks Arm

Glen Kielgas, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kielgas, 1005 Bell avenue, broke his arm when he fell while playing in the yard at home about 6 o'clock last Friday evening. He was taken to the St. Elizabeth hospital and is now back at home.

Roasting Turkeys Ready for Market Only at Maturity

Turkeys intended for roasting are ready for market only at maturity, generally 24 to 28 weeks after hatching, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture in a communication to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

In examining turkeys for market it is a good plan to look for pinfeathers. If all feathers are fairly well grown out it is safe to assume that the bird has reached maturity and should be in market condition. Pinfeathers also add to the difficulty of picking and result in an unattractive carcass, unless special effort is made to remove them all.

There are two reasons why a mature or finished bird makes the best eating, says S. J. Marsden, of the bureau of animal industry.

In the first place the immature bird has little or no fat, which is necessary, to full juiciness and finest flavor, and which is indispensable in making sauces, gravy, and dressing. Secondly, the full amount of breast and leg meat is added in the last 4 to 8 weeks of feeding.

Sciatica is a form of neuralgia which affects the sciatic nerve.

Faculty Advisors Select Albert Wickesberg as Assistant Editor

Albert Wickesberg was chosen assistant editor of the Clarion, Appleton high school year book, by faculty advisors Monday. Other editorial staff appointments were also made yesterday.

Cordell Zuehlke was chosen editor-in-chief of the annual last spring to succeed Harry Zerbel. Wickesberg won the Spector award last year for being the most outstanding sophomore. He is a member of the Masque and Book club and of the high school band.

Editorial appointments made by the faculty advisors follow: administration editor, Maxine Kamp; senior editors, Lois Boon, Dorothy Frank, Arleen Hamilton, Anne Holtz and Ellen Martz; junior editors, Peggy Boyer, Audrey Lemmer, and Mary Ellen Pomeroy; sophomore editors, Astory Hamner, Betty Meidam, Robert Sager, and Robert Wilch; activities editors, Fern Bauer, Jeanne Foote and Margaret Walsh.

Student life editors, Betty Brown, Mary Ellen Schuetter, and Mildred Toll; art editors, Robert Bodmer, Dorothy Heilig and Lorraine Junger; sports editors, Warren Buesing, Roger Jones, Mary Keller and Dorothy Ogilvie; photographers, Donald Bohl, Edward Mumm and Albert Wickesberg. Corresponding secretary is Helen Detman.

John and Oiler, Chicago, will again be the engravers and the Badger Printing company of Appleton has the printing contract.

The large sophomore staff this year has been selected to give younger students training and to give the large sophomore class fair representation.

A meeting of the Clarion staff will be held Thursday at which arrangements will be made to take senior pictures for the annual.

Neighbors Help in Building New House For County Farmer

William Rahmlow, who owns a farm on Highway 47 six miles north of the city, knows that his is one community where the neighborly spirit really reigns.

A fire levelled his farm home and garage and destroyed his car on the night of Sept. 1. And today, believe it or not, they're putting shingles on a brand new 6-room farmhouse.

Two carpenters, his son, and neighbors working in shifts have ganged up on the job to give him and his family a new home before snow flies. They were able to use the foundation of the former home, but the rest of the 1 1/2-story structure is new.

Fair and Warmer, Weatherman Says

Temperature at 76 Today, Highest in More Than a Week

Appleton basked in delightful autumn weather today, and the weatherman says it will continue tomorrow.

September sunlight and warm southwest winds moved the thermometer up to 76 degrees at noon today, the highest it has been for more than a week. For the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning, the highest temperature in the city was 70 and the lowest 54, according to records at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

Local showers are a possibility in the northwest portion of the state tomorrow, the weatherman says. Shreveport, La., led the nation's hot spots with 100 degrees yesterday. Park Falls' 34 was the coldest.

An exhibit of photographs, the work of Appleton amateur photographers, went on display today at the Picture Shop, 229 E. College avenue. The exhibit was arranged by the Appleton Camera club, and was prepared by members of the organization.

The exhibit will remain until Saturday when it goes on a tour that will take it to six cities in Wisconsin and Illinois to be shown by seven different photographic organizations. The Appleton photographs are scheduled to be shown in Milwaukee, Oak Park, Ill., Peoria, Ill., Chicago, Green Bay and Rhinelander. Exchange exhibits from these cities will make their appearance here during the next seven months.

Soviet Spokesman In Bitter Attack On Fascist Group

Assails Anti-Communist Crusade in Italy, Germany and Japan

Geneva—(AP)—Maxim Litvinoff, communist Russia's foreign commissar, bitterly attacked anti-communist crusades of Germany, Italy and Japan before the League of Nations assembly today, terming them only excuses for "invasion of other states and breaches of international treaties."

He called on the assembly to "call a spade a spade and aggression aggression or whatever slogan it decorates itself with."

The heavy-jowled Russian's oratory created a fresh stir in the cross-play of European rivalries in the Mediterranean—a situation which had been relieved by the prospect of a face-saving formula to win fascist Italy's participation in the international piracy patrol.

Obviously referring to the three declared:

"In a burst of inexhaustible love for the near and distant peoples they proclaim their mission to be the freeing of those peoples from communism."

Assails Communist Foes

"To carry out their self-appointed mission of conferring great blessings on other nations, they are ready to spare no energies and resources of their own people, they are ready to reduce to the minimum its most elementary material requirements and leave it in hunger rations only to have sufficient arms to root out communism in other countries."

Anti-communism, Litvinoff asserted, often "signifies a yearning for tin, zinc, mercury and other materials" and denied that either of the present wars—in Spain or China—could be justified as anti-communist crusades.

"We frequently hear that all democratic parliamentary governments are on the eve of bolshevization," he continued. "It is not far from this to the assertion that it is necessary to confer the same blessing on them to save them from the destruction by which they are threatened, as in the case of Spain, by means of armed interference and attack."

Both Italy and her major fascist friend, Germany, have sided with the insurgent cause in Spain with the avowed aim of preventing "bolshevization" of the Iberian peninsula. Japan's invasion of China is explained in Tokyo as an effort to suppress anti-Japanism and communism.

Committee Meets

The League of Nations' special advisory committee, looking for a formula to curb the Sino-Japanese war, was called into session today with a representative of the United States sitting in to give his government's view.

Litvinoff expressed the opinion that "even with its present composition, the league can afford both China and Spain more extensive aids than those countries modestly are demanding."

Australia's delegate, Stanley M. Bruce, told the assembly the most practical league procedure in the Far Eastern crisis would be to arrange "a conference of powers most vitally concerned over their position in the Far East regardless of whether they are members of the league."

Both the Australian and Russian delegates had kind words for the United States, but Litvinoff scoffed at the contention of covenant revision proponents that American adherence could be obtained if the league's structure were remodelled to the United States' taste.

Deplores U. S. Aloofness

"I am sure if the United States government thought it possible to join the league in any particular condition it would find a way to let us know," he declared, deploring, however, that America remained aloof from Geneva.

The Soviet representative lauded "the American people's profound love of peace and their sincere horror of war."

Bruce commended the United States for "her active cooperation in the international labor office and on technical committees of the league."

Mediterranean tension was considered believed by the possibility of a face-saving formula to win Italy's participation in the nine-power anti-piracy patrol.

British Gesture

Anthony Eden, the British foreign secretary, made what was interpreted as a conciliatory gesture toward President Mussolini before the league assembly yesterday.

The tenor of his speech was taken to mean that Britain and France were ready to negotiate to give Italy a considerable zone of the Mediterranean to patrol against pirate submarines, warships and aircraft which in recent weeks had become a grave hazard to shipping.

Optimistic observers in London predicted Italy might soon enjoy the "moral equality" of authority of the prestige Britain and France gained at the Nyon conference. At the same time it was fully realized both in London and Paris that difficult negotiations lay ahead.

Action Delayed On LaFollette's Relief Program

the league's relief committee were willing to settle for 10 per cent.

Mayor Henry Hanson of Platteville, chairman of the committee, and Dr. Willard Sonnenberg, Sheboygan mayor, gave their support to the county boards' amendment even though they said 10 per cent payments would be inadequate.

There was no direct opposition to the bill.

Highway Commissioner Thomas Davlin, speaking for a "rider" to the bill giving the highway commission the right to spend $500,000 of its funds this year and $750,000 thereafter in a safety campaign, said the program would be principally educational. About $200,000 would go for improved marking of highways, he added.

Davlin said the commission planned to employ 75 or 100 traffic inspectors to work through schools and civic clubs. His statement that the inspectors should be deputized to arrest drunken drivers drew some opposition from Democrat assemblymen who objected to any "state police."

Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimons (D), Fond du Lac, suggested the safety program be turned over to the state department of public instruction so it would be "less political."

Secretary Duncan also explained an administration bill revising procedure in back income tax case was necessary if the state is to collect $3,000,000 of unpaid taxes for the years 1927 to 1932. Collection of these levies has been jeopardized, he said, by recent court decisions.

Delays Decision In Slaying Case

Judge to Rule Wednesday On Motion for Change Of Venue

Eau Claire—(AP)—Judge James Wickham yesterday deferred until Wednesday decision on a motion for a change in venue made by Attorney Harold E. Stafford, Chippewa Falls, when Carl Johnson of this city was arraigned on a second degree murder charge in connection with the death of Joyce Sorenson, 14.

The girl died June 29, last fatally wounded by a bullet from a rifle. District Attorney V. Tronsdal declared was fired by the defendant. When arraigned today Johnson pleaded "innocent by reason of insanity" to the charge. His attorney immediately moved for the venue change.

Two physicians, appointed by the court two weeks ago to examine Johnson petition of defense counsel, found Johnson sane, and declared he was sane at the time of the shooting.

District Attorney Tronsdal said Johnson, in a signed confession at the time of the girl's death, admitted firing three shots into his brother's home, adjoining his, to "scare him" and that after the third shot he saw the girl fall on the sidewalk on the street beyond.

Word was received here this morning that Mayor John Goodland, Jr., has been appointed a trustee and member of the executive council of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities. The appointment was made by J. J. Wallis, mayor of Rice Lake and president of the league.

G. O. P. Chieftains Have Conference

Plan to Outline Drive to Recapture Congressional Seats

Washington—(AP)—Party strategists from 10 cities gathered at Republican headquarters today to outline a campaign for recapturing votes and congressional seats in key urban areas.

The meeting of Republican chairmen from cities and counties with more than 500,000 population—the first of its kind—was a prelude to a conference Thursday of the executive committee and officers of the National Republican committee.

Just before they assembled, the leaders learned of the resignation of the veteran Charles D. Hilles as national committeeman from New York.

His retirement and the recent death of J. Henry Roraback, Connecticut committeeman, materially reduced the ranks of the "old guard" chieftains who once controlled the party machinery.

Hilles, who is 70 and a former national chairman, said he wished to quit now so that his successor can get a "running start" for the 1940 presidential campaign, "the plans of which must be determined in the congressional campaign of 1938."

The latter contest, he said, "will be far more than a preliminary skirmish."

This week's conferences, aimed primarily at building foundations for next year's campaign, were called by National Chairman John Hamilton with a two-fold purpose:

To obtain reports on local sentiment and trends in regions of concentrated voting power and advice on what the party can do to regain some of that power.

To submit reports on what the national committee is doing in an effort to wrest seats from Democratic congressmen.

In addition, Hamilton was considering asking the executive committee to set a date—perhaps in November or December—for a meeting of the full national committee in Chicago.

THE LAYMAN'S INSTRUMENT

When the President spoke of the constitution as a layman's instrument the other day he was about 90 per cent right. But the 10 per cent error was an exceedingly important one.

The constitution as originally drawn was certainly a layman's instrument in the sense that it was so clearly and perfectly written that little occasion has ever arisen for any important dispute concerning the meaning of its various provisions.

However, the President should be familiar with the fact that all our controversy concerning the constitution has reference entirely to that part of it which he did not mention, the amendments since the Civil war.

And, sad to relate, such amendments were not written altogether in layman's language.

To take the very apt and material example of the provision that says: "Nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law" it is very important to find out exactly what "due process of law" means.

That is a legal expression. And while it might not be so very difficult to frame a definition for it, its application to hundreds, even thousands, of different attempts by legislatures to enter new and unexplored fields is surrounded by the large chance that men will differ in that application. The same amendment insures to every person "the equal protection of the laws"—again, a legal phrase that might be fairly well defined—but the trouble arises in applying the definition to many thousands of instances where legislative bodies have really sought to prevent some people from receiving the benefits of the same protective laws that are accorded others.

The President should remember, too, that the supreme court didn't write the language that has become so bothersome. It was written by a congress.

There are two theories concerning the purpose of the legal phraseology in these Civil war amendments. One is that the country was content to leave the matter of its liberties in relation to future legislation in the hands of the supreme court. But the other, to us more plausible theory, and certainly supported by reference to the hysterical condition prevailing in post bellum days, is that the congress that approved and submitted these amendments to the states was under the leadership of certain strident and dictatorial men who willingly appealed to the impatient and then inflamed prejudices of the masses.

In other words, more fear and emotion may have been employed than the care which should come from a body that duly deliberates.

In fact, in some particulars we might compare the fine frenzy that attended the adoption of some of those amendments immediately following the Civil war to the recent confirmation of Kluxer Black by the senate.

A BONUS DOESN'T HELP UNCLE SAM

The government will eventually find it necessary to do something about the International Harvester Company.

This company has just set aside a bonus of $4,400,000 to its 65,000 employees. We are never going to get the budget balanced in any such manner as this.

Where is the government going to get its rake-off?

Here in one chunk the government loses a tax of about $800,000 because the company took this sum from its profits and distributed it among its men averaging about $70 apiece.

When taxes from profits are not sufficient to pay the government's expenses it must go after the little fellow, always lessening his exemption and raising the rates.

This Administration hasn't the courage for such a program. It knows such an act will interfere with the applause.

So long as Pennsylvania reaches out for the beggar's cup in order to get an inheritance tax from charitable donations why should not the government of the United States tax the workers who have received this International Harvester money?

The answer is that the government will do just that or cut its expenses as soon as it recovers its senses.

THE PRODIGAL STARTS BACK

"The union agrees that it is the responsibility of the management to maintain discipline and efficiency in its shops and the right of the employer to hire, discipline and discharge employees for cause is expressly recognized subject to the right of appeal through the grievance procedure."

"The union recognizes and agrees that unauthorized strikes, stoppages of work and deliberate reduction in rate of production below standards established, according to Section 'C' of the agreement, before all the steps set forth in the grievance procedure had been complied with, are indefensible and for a violation of this provision by the union, its officials or members the company will discharge or otherwise discipline the employee or employees known to be, or found guilty thereof and the union shall take effective disciplinary action against the member or members of the union responsible therefor."

"Non-compliance on the part of the union with the above provisions shall be deemed a breach of the agreement and a just cause for immediate suspension or cancellation thereof by the company."

"The foregoing is the text of an agreement offered by CIO to General Motors for discussion."

This means that the paragraphs were written by CIO, and the emphatic language employed certainly indicates that finally the union has become just as sick of irresponsibility as the company.

After all, however far away from the center of safety and stability we all may wander when the loco weed overcomes us or some Pied Piper charms us there is eventual return to the sound ideas without which there can never be work or management, advancement or satisfaction.

29 GOVERNORS AND HARDLY A THOUGHT

A careful poll of the 38 Democratic governors in this country brought out six of them in favor of a third term for Mr. Roosevelt three opposed, and the balance non-communicative.

It is probably safe to say that the great majority of the 29 who did not want to go on record feel that a third term would be a bad affair for America, that we would be departing from the safe and homely moorings that have made us great to travel in the far country where there is no compass and the stars that might act as guides are not to be seen.

Upon a matter of deep and abiding principle of this character it is sad to see so many men occupying important positions who decline to state manfully and directly their attitude largely because they reason that a statement will probably do them no good and may hurt them with Field Marshal Farley when another check is needed from the treasury or still other Washington favors are to be had.

Nor is their attitude a high compliment to the character of men that we elect to such important offices, men who wear gumshoes and walk around on tiptoes lest they stir up opposition and criticism, men, one may think who were intended for much lesser positions in the political world than a gubernatorial chair if indeed they were ever cut out to serve the public at all.

COAL AND ITS RIVALS

At the last session of congress a Bituminous Coal Commission was created.

Our country was divided into 23 districts for which District Boards are established whose principal occupation will be the fixing of a minimum price for coal.

But it is wise to remember that about 35 per cent of all bituminous coal mined in this country is used in industry, and that when the price of coal goes too high industry must look around for competitive fuels.

Industry will certainly look at oil and electric power.

But to show that the government never lets its right hand know what its left hand is doing it thus takes a step which will increase the cost of coal at the same time that it is spending hundreds of millions whittling yardsticks to lessen the cost of electric power, coal's most formidable competitor.

It is possible, therefore, that bituminous coal will see itself injured or destroyed as an industrial fuel while it is held hand and foot by the government and not even permitted to defend itself.

The great flaw in the government procedure is not in its attempt to soften or eliminate untoward tactics in any particular field. Its error is its failure to take jurisdiction at the same time of competitive fields. The situation is correctly portrayed in a recent issue of the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"The failure of fixing the price of a product without exercising similar control over related products and substitutes has been demonstrated many times. If the government fixes prices too high purchasers will seek new fuels and experiment with electric power. Diesel power, anthracite coal, natural gas and fuel oil."

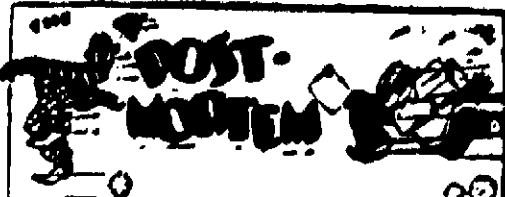

Mexico asserts it has the world's only school for guides. Its 220 students take a six-month course covering geography, history, archeology, religion, history and art.

The use of kyacks, or kaiaaks, has increased rapidly during the past few years. Kaiaaks were first used in the Arctic regions. They are small canoes usually covered with sealskin.

Commercial production of candy in the United States during the last year is estimated at 2,054,312,000 pounds, 8 per cent greater than the previous record output during 1929.

Halo effects may be achieved in coiffures by tying a piece of cord around the head and pinning the hair around the cord.

There are 187 pounds of salt in one ton of water from the Dead Sea.

THOUGHTS, after a last minute trip to the Packer-Bear affair: why is it the action always happens on the five yard line where I'm NOT sitting? . . . why is there always a guy who has to explain the game to his companion who doesn't know the first thing about it? . . . what happened to the drunk who always sits nearby? . . . where did the Bears get so many big, tough, fast men? . . . and, once they get their fancy attack smoothed off, who is supposed to be able to stop them? . . .

Stories about the wide-open type of game to be played by the pros leave you wondering. This was a very fundamental sort of affair, and the first half was notable for its defensive play.

There's no denying the great usefulness of the new stretch of Highway 41. The time saved is remarkable, and it is possible to make the trip in fewer minutes at less speed.

Nice and new though it may be, however, it is already catching its share of accidents.

I hope that the wolves don't get after Curly Lambeau. His wasn't the better team on Sunday.

Unofficial reports came back from Green Bay yesterday that the Packers took a fancy physical beating, along with the woes of losing the game.

Well, try wrassling with a couple of trucks yourself.

The eastern gentleman, brought to Green Bay to replace Arnie Herber, must know how Casey at the bat felt. He threw two passes, neither with pleasant results.

But he couldn't have felt worse than a friend, extremely interested in the Packers, who sat directly behind a man who dropped dead at the game.

At least the weather was nice.
P. S.: IT WAS POSTPONED

Japan, enraged at its inability to penetrate into Shanghai, was scheduled yesterday to bomb Nanking, where untold numbers of civilians will probably have perished by the time this gets into print.

This is proof that civilization is certainly progressing. Twenty-five years ago, such an attack would have been impossible.

One thing I haven't been able to figure out is the fact that China has been operating under military plans worked out by Germans, and has been successful at it. Yet Germany's official sympathies have been with Japan for some time.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE HIDDEN DOOR

Hidden by memory's immortal vines.
There is a door from others set apart.
Although around it loving thought entwines,
I stop short of this one door in my heart.
It never opens for a second's space.
For if it did, a flood of grief would run,
And that is something that I could not face—
To see my sorrow naked in the sun.

With courage for my crutch, sometime I will Grasp the cold doorknob in determined hands.
And watch the sunshine flood the door until
Inside my heart no dark invader stands.
The healing march of the demanding years
Will swing that door aside, and dry my tears.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Sept. 20, 1927

Paul Fox, Chilton, has gone to South Bend, Ind., to enter Notre Dame university. He was accompanied by his brother, Jerome, who will resume his studies in the Marquette university law school this fall.

The opening of the public schools in Marion was delayed until Monday, Sept. 19, in order to allow for the completion of the new $125,000 school building. The Marion schoolhouse was burned in May, 1926, and since that time school has been conducted in the village hall, in the rooms over the bank, in the churches, the opera house and the rooms in the rear of a meat market.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bey, Los Angeles, arrived in the city Sunday night to spend a month with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schultz, 1228 W. Lawrence street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Green celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday at their home near Freedom.

Appleton is the home of the new light heavyweight champion of Wisconsin as the result of a match Sunday evening in which Joe McVey of this city threw Howard Blazer of Oconto, the title holder, twice in 18 minutes.

23 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Sept. 24, 1912

Shortstop Brautigan of the Appleton club of the Wisconsin-Illinois league was drawn by Indianapolis in the American Association draft. He was slated to report to the Indians the next spring.

Miss Freida Tiedt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tiedt, town of Center, and Louis Knaack, Center, were married at 10 o'clock last morning in St. Paul's Lutheran church of Center by the Rev. W. G. Haase.

Forty-five applications for citizenship were allowed in circuit court Monday including 17 persons from Germany, 14 from Holland, 3 from England, 5 from Austria and one each from Russia, Belgium and Sweden.

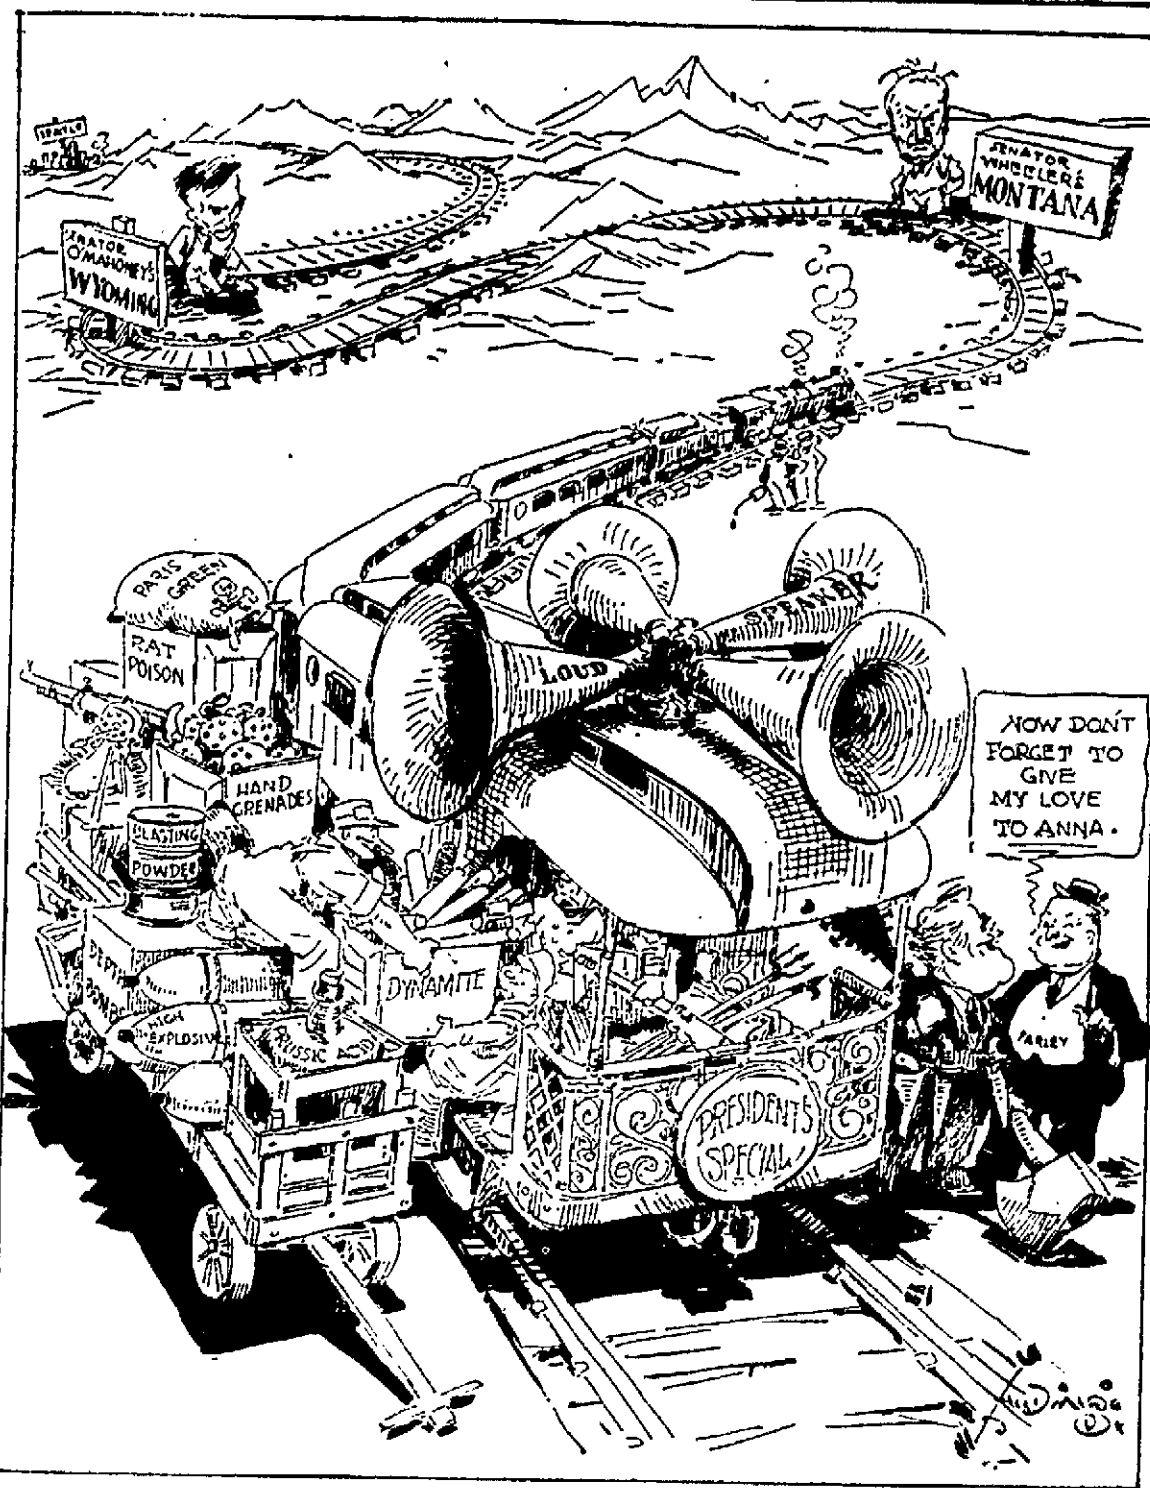

The vestry of All Saints church issued a call to the Rev. Mr. Reynolds of New London.

A marriage license was issued to Calvin L. Dell, Albion, Mich., and Augusta Elizabeth Frank, New London.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Burdick of Black Creek entertained friends from Appleton Sunday.

Appleton High school's football team was slated to play its first game of the season against New London Sept. 28. The squad was drilling under the direction of Coach Miles.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

ACETANILID HABIT

Acetanilid is made of aniline (a coal tar product) and glacial acetic acid. Another name for it is phenylacetamide. It is an ingredient of scores of more or less popular tablets, pills, powders and drinks which purport to be remedies for "colds," grip, headache, neuralgia, neuritis, insomnia, fatigue, anxiety, fever, nervousness, rheumatism, epilepsy, whooping cough, seasickness, dysmenorrhea, lumbago, sciatica.

Phenacetin is another coaltar derivative similar in effect to acetanilid. Phenacetin is sometimes called acetophenetidin.

Antipyrin is still another coaltar derivative of similar character; its chemical name is phenylhydramethyl-pyrazolone.

Pyramidon is still another drug in the same class, otherwise known as amidopyrin.

Altho these and other coaltar derivatives possess individual differences in solubility, taste, appearance, rapidity of action, cost, etc., they are more or less interchangeable, and indeed a familiar nostrum that contains phenacetin this year may contain acetanilid instead next year, due to some change in the market or a desire to assure the world that the product contains no acetanilid.

The common action of these coaltar derivatives is sedative—the sensory portion of nerves and spinal cord. That is the drug benumbs sensibility to ache, pain or distress or discomfort of any kind. If that were all, the coaltar drugs would be fine for benumbing consciousness of trouble. But unfortunately there are other actions or effects inseparable from the dulling of sensation. These drugs depress the circulation, and if taken frequently or habitually they disintegrate the blood, destroy red blood corpuscles. All of the coaltar derivatives for years have benumbed nerves interfere with the vital oxygen-carrying function of the blood. One of the characteristic signs of poisoning, generally chronic poisoning in habitual users of these drugs, is cyanosis, blueness which shows in the lips and the nails or in some instances blueness of the whole surface.

In the same mail today came these letters—one from an eastern state, one from a western state:

"Husband consumes large quantities of a (drink which contains acetanilid). This has made his lips appear blue, also his skin. He buys it to use at home, also stops at fountain to buy it wherever he finds it available. He takes several doses a day. He drank excessively for years and has been trying to moderate the past year or two. He is 45, very nervous and irritable. Hard to live with."

"What harm can result from the daily use of the (same drink) if a user takes a dose first thing on rising in the morning, before dinner in the evening, and again before retiring at night? The user does not take it for relief of after-effects of drinking but as relief from some feeling of need for the dose."

The preparation referred to by both letters originally contained acetanilid, but later phenacetin. There are on record numerous cases of fatal poisoning from its use. Probably thousands of victims are in a precarious state of health from the habit of resorting to these coaltar drugs for relief of trifling complaints.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Why Neck
Can why neck be cured surgically or otherwise? This condition has been present since birth, and altho it is not painful it does detract from my appearance. . . . my age is 26 years. (G. R. W.)

Answer—Perhaps permanent deformity of bones has occurred by now. However, you should at least have the benefit of an orthopedic surgeon's opinion—your physician will recommend one. The earlier in life such deformities are treated the better the results will be. Delay permits irregular or unsymmetrical growth to produce more or less irremediable deformity.

Sleepers
Doing harm to my body going up and down stairs? There are 21 stairs and I notice sometimes I hurry up my heart flutters and my face gets flushed and warm? (Mrs. A. E. R.)

Answer—No harm, rather beneficial to the heart and the general health. But take it easy for a bit—pause half way up and think or hesitate as tho you must go right back downstairs. Then finish the climb on low gear or as tho cogitating some problem in your mind. Meanwhile do some belly breathing. Do that regularly night and morning anyway, for the good of heart and circulation. Send ten cents and stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet "How to Breathe." (Copyright, 1937)

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If September 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m., and from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m., from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m., and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m.

Too many busybodies will see, hear, and tell too much this day for you to ignore their existence. People's smiles may be worth studying. Some may be full of guile, contempt, amusement, or indicate good will and an inclination to be well disposed towards the recipient. It will pay, however, to remember that there can be a world of meaning in a smile.

Smooth-sounding words may be deceiving also, so it might be well to let "actions speak louder than words." Self-interest is likely to dominate the giver of free advice, unless it is someone whose love you can trust. Through social contact idle gossip will be responsible for many erroneous opinions, so take what you hear with a grain of salt this day. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who have caught the fever of love, should bear in mind that too much reticence is just as bad as an excessive loquaciousness. There is danger in indulging in one or the other this day.

If a woman and September 22 is your birthday restlessness can affect your future. "A rolling stone gathers no moss," nor does any person who permits a sense of dissatisfaction to cause him or her to shift from one place to another, especially if engaged in some professional character, but it is up to you to develop them to the highest degree. Wealth seems destined to compensate you fully for any struggles or heartaches you might endure while climbing the ladder that leads to success. Through the theatre, radio work, singing, music, authorship, journalism or a specialized form of work you ought to be very successful. As a married woman your life ought to be replete with happiness.

The child born on September 22 is in the bloom of youth frequently makes an outstanding record for scholastic or athletic work. Nature usually endows this youngster with many mental and physical gifts, not the least of them being an ability to speak well.

If a man and September 22 is your natal day, if you do things for yourself, and do not depend on others doing them for you, nothing should balk your ambition. Journalism, contracting, real estate, acting, bookcraving, manufacturing and politics are fields of endeavor that ought to yield a rich harvest to one of your ability.

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE BORN ON SEPTEMBER 22:

Theodore Winthrop, Author and soldier.
Peter Turney, Jurist.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—When Gilbert Miller presents to New York audiences some time this month a play called "French Without Tears" he will give the town its first glimpse of "the most hissed-at man in England."

This is Guy Middleton, whose function as target for opprobrious noises in his native land but is, rather, a tribute to his acting ability and good sportsmanship.

Middleton acquired his standing as a hissed-at man through having played notably in a stage presentation several years ago called "Young England." This was a melodrama written by an 83-year-old dilettante in the style of ranting fireworks that had been the fashion in his youth. His characters were black, scoundrelly villains on the one hand, or spotlessly pure heroes on the other, and their speeches were sententious to the nth degree, green.

The old gentleman had written his play in all seriousness but when it came to be put on it turned out to be hilarious burlesque, serving for English audiences just as "Murder in the Old Red Barn" served American audiences—as an opportunity to laugh at outmoded theatrical fashions.

Mr. Middleton was the villain of this mammoth opera, and audiences for months took delight in reviving the old British custom of hissing the villain. The actor, on his side, took such delight in being hissed at so enthusiastically that it became a joke among his friends and also with a good many strangers who recognized him and hissed wherever they saw him, off stage and on. In time he grew to expect every group he encountered in subways, on buses, in restaurants to break out into a chorus of sibilant sounds.

Mr. Middleton admits that he has no great wish to duplicate this tradition in America. It's laughs this time, instead of hisses. He will play the part of a young, rather thick-skinned old jolly bee-eater who goes to the south of France and involves himself in various affairs of the heart.

This is the play which ran for more than a year in London and which he believes will go a long way towards making the season in New York a happy one.

FOOD COSTS MOUNT

London—It is costing Britons 35 per cent more to live in 1937 than it did in 1914. The cost of food alone has risen 40 per cent in that period.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Apparently you can't scare the great American sucker.

After the punishment the stock market has passed out to its participants in recent days, it would seem that the small bird with his few hundred dollars of sock-money would stay out until the trouble blew over. Not so.

The securities and exchange commission has been keeping a daily tabulation on the doings of the little fellow in the stock market. His buyings and sellings are kindly described by the busy traders as "odd lots" deals in which less than 100 shares are involved.

The exchange began keeping that report daily on June 7. With the exception of two days, the courageous little fellows on the outside continued to pour in their money in steadily greater volume than they took out right through the hectic week ending July 11. In that week there were repeated slumps in the market, slumps that recalled 1929.

Can't Scare Him

But did the little fellow's panic muscles tighten? Not so that it was especially noticeable. It is true that after the earliest sharp break September 7, the little fellows seemed to forget the effort to get out of the market brought sales to 389,538 shares while they bought in only 387,778.

Even on that day there were more "odd lot" orders to buy than to sell, 14,900 to 13,592. While the number of orders is not an exact measure of the number of buyers and sellers, it points strongly to the conclusion that the actual number of little fellows who bought in to the market despite the break was greater than the number who sold out.

But the following Saturday, Sept. 11, there came another wave of selling among the big buyers in the market that brought a slump as sharp as on the previous Tuesday. Tuesday it had been suggested that the sharp note of Russia to Italy on submarine piracy was responsible for the drop.

High School Band Uniforms

Editor Post-Crescent—I note my honest and sincere criticism has drawn fire. I am informed it is the most talked of event that has occurred in many years. This shows a healthy condition of affairs. Before explaining myself and my attitude, I wish to compliment our band. I am proud of our band. Its accomplishments. It is conceded to be one of the best high school bands in our state. Their training has been most excellent. Their music most beautifully rendered and great credit is due Mr. Moore for his most excellent tutelage.

The decorum of the band is beyond reproach. I am very much afraid my blunt criticism is being misinterpreted. To those who have taken offense, I beg their pardon. The beautiful labor day parade created an instruction which looks forth in my natural characteristic manner. My personal feelings sometimes must find a vent. I signed the article with my own name. I am not ashamed nor will I back down on; the philosophy of the object at all. I did not intend to cast any reflections, but to sound a clarion call. I think it has been heard. From the general sentiment and the many, many commendations I have received clearly convinces me that there are many others who think as I do, but are inclined to keep silent for personal reasons.

Now friends, let us ponder this question carefully, delicately, candidly without prejudices or anger. It is an important question and should be considered without rancor.

It has been said God created women in the image of man. I think he made a great improvement. There is nothing more beautiful than a young woman endowed with that heavenly nature. Why dampen the sensibilities of the nature by dressing them in the garb designed for men. The history of garments is a most interesting study.

The experiences of centuries have gradually developed the proper attire for each sex. Woman's dress of today is the most sensible and beautiful ever conceived in past centuries. Notice how God checks extremes in any directions to preserve that womanly virtue. Why deceive the accomplishments of ages too readily for convenience in position occupied by the wearer. There is something sacred in this sacrifice in half of so-called modernism. Let us prevent, if possible, the introduction of anything that might have a tendency toward the destruction of womanly virtues, which is the most precious thing that God has given them.

I am not ashamed of my stand nor my blunt expression. It sometimes requires a bomb shell to awaken our sensibilities. "Criticism is wonderful if constructive but destructive criticism has no place in our great community." That is well expressed. My criticism must be placed in the former, according to this expression, instead of cheap criticism.

This all you will hear from me on this subject in public print regardless of any comeback.

Second Cranberry Harvest Festival Will Open Friday

Prospect of Bumper Crop Gives Incentive to Wisconsin Rapids Program

Wisconsin Rapids—(P)—Sponsors of Wisconsin's second annual cranberry harvest festival relied today on the prospect of a good crop to bring enthusiastic crowds to their three day celebration beginning September 24.

A growers' estimate of a 75,000 barrel crop, one of the largest in recent years, gave incentive to an expanded festival program. The city's junior association of commerce will sponsor a festival ball, a cranberry raking contest for a mythical world's championship, a parade of floats and marching organizations and outdoor vaudeville.

The dance, opening event of the program, will be held at Lincoln fieldhouse Friday night. A Wisconsin valley conference football game between Antigo and Wisconsin Rapids high schools also will be played that evening.

One of 18 central Wisconsin girls will be crowned festival queen Saturday night.

The 1936 cranberry raking champion, Bill Mike, and the runner-up, Ed Lincoln, both Indians, will be back. Stake welders at many marshes also plan to enter the contest, which requires considerable stamina under wet conditions.

A. E. Bennett, Guy Nash and Roy Potter, Wood county growers, will supervise the contest at the Gaynor marsh here Sunday, Sept. 26. The winner will receive an engraved trophy.

Twenty floats and six bands have been entered in the parade to be held Sunday afternoon.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Intimate report on the love life of a boy star, Mickey Rooney:

At 16, Mickey's affairs of the heart already are numerous. Some of the girl friends are film youngsters, like himself, but just as many are not. Strangely enough, they are all alike in one respect: none of the girls is more than five feet tall.

The reason? Well, Mickey himself is five feet two, and can't bear to be seen with a girl taller than himself. He has almost despaired of growing any taller, and it irks him. For a time he used to measure himself every day against a black chalk mark in the shower. But the only way he could move the mark up was to stand on tip-toe. Then he began affecting a military haircut that bristles in front. It makes him look an inch taller. The fact that it also makes him look as if he'd just escaped from reform school is beside the point.

Courtship at School
To be a Rooney "date" a girl must dance as well as be short. A Rooney "date" invariably means a high school or country club dance. His $10 a week allowance, out of which he buys his clothes, allows him about one date a week. His "gang" still considers too much dating sissy, but one a week is all right if you treat it in the offhand, man-of-the-world fashion. You may even be seen at an occasional premiere with a young lady, because it's the accepted thing, but otherwise you've got to go easy on this love stuff and prove you can take it or leave it. That's the code.

The schoolroom at Metro is somewhat limited as a juvenile matchmaker, for there are only two girls in the school anywhere near Mickey's age. They are Judy Garland, 14, and Betty Jaynes, 16. Judy used to be Jackie Cooper's steady, but since Jackie started attending Beverly Hills high school that romance seems to have wavered somewhat. In fact, it was Mickey who escorted Judy to the premiere of his "Captains Courageous." But he took Betty Jaynes to the premiere of "The Firefly." Now that Mickey and Judy have been teamed in a new picture ("Thoroughbreds Don't Cry") further developments are breathlessly awaited.

Business Comes First
Mickey, of course, is a very busy young man, and it's a wonder he has any time for girls at all. There are his song-writing, his orchestra, his bowling team, and whatnot, and now that autumn is approaching the girls with designs on the Rooney heart are warned to make the most of their time now. In a few weeks he'll be giving them up entirely. Football practice gets under way any time now and with the Rooney "Blue Devils" getting into training, there'll be no women on the Rooney schedule until New Year's.

Greek Letter Groups Fete Frosh Guests

A N Alice in Wonderland party, a tea dance and a county fair party entertained the rushes of three Lawrence college sororities Monday as the Greeks began a week of intensive party-giving in their annual fall bid for new members. Kappa Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta and Alpha Chi Omega sororities entertained yesterday, and Zeta Tau Alpha, Delta Gamma and Alpha Delta Pi had parties planned for this afternoon.

The Phi Kappa Tau house, where Kappa Delta sorority entertained at its "Alice in K. D. Land" party yesterday afternoon, was transformed into the Wonderland of the famous story. The girls even entered the house through a looking glass, as did the original Alice, but the looking glass was cellophane and conveniently slit so that the guests needed no magic to get through it. Decorations were facsimiles of playing cards, including the king and queen of hearts, and the knave of hearts, important characters in the Wonderland story. The program included a court trial, fashioned after the court trial in the story, and favors were miniature decks of playing cards.

Mrs. Delmar Peterson and Mrs. H. H. Heible poured at the English tea, which included tarts, small cakes and cheese. Arrangements for the party had been made by a committee consisting of Miss Marjorie Fulton, Appleton, chairman, Miss Jane Houts, Chicago, and Miss Ruth Hanna, Appleton.

"County Fair"

All the variety of pastimes that make a county fair so much fun provided entertainment for the rushes of Alpha Chi Omega sorority Monday afternoon when they gathered at the Beta Theta Pi house for a county fair party. There was a weight-guessing concession, superintended by Miss Ruth Bauer, Fremont, who gave a balloon on which were the sorority's Greek letters to each girl whose weight she did not guess correctly. The winner of a dart game won a little pillow, also decorated with the sorority's letters. There were also a number of smaller prizes, and Miss Carolyn Kutz, Chicago, told fortunes. Refreshments were appropriately hamburgers and pop, and favors were little celluloid dolls, much bedecked with feathers. Miss Helen Bauer, Fremont, was in charge of arrangements for the party.

Kappa Alpha Theta sorority entertained at a tea dance Monday afternoon at the Phi Delta Theta house. Guests received little cellophane dolls as favors and dance programs decorated with pictures of Pop-Eye. Part of the afternoon's program was a Pop-Eye skit presented by three Appleton girls, the Misses Barbara Rounds, Mary White and Jean Lewis. Little cakes with the Greek letters and punch were served as refreshments. Miss Barbara Rounds was chairman of the dance.

Take Out Your Knives, Students, Class Will Please Come to Order

A class in meat carving, especially meant for young men recently married but also open to older men who have been wrestling with the Thanksgiving turkey each year for 20 and still haven't pinned it to the platter, will be offered at the Vocational school this fall.

The class will be more or less experimental and just who will teach it has yet to be determined; the possibility that local surgeons will be called upon to use their knowledge of human anatomy in instructing students in sculpturing a rib roast has been mentioned.

With official approval, the students will wield knives right in the class room and have the advantage of home work. One of the problems will be to have the meat cooked and ready at the time the lectures and demonstrations are being given. The carvers will first learn how to find the joints in uncooked fowls, a task considerably harder than locating them in cooked birds. Not only will the students get wise to the ways of quickly and gracefully tearing a fowl or roast to pieces, but also will be tipped off on how to buy meat, what to cut off, and what to cook.

Many a man, for example, who has been squaring off each night for a good rough-and-tumble with a porterhouse, doesn't know that it contains tenderloin, sirloin and flank and that the latter is made up of excellent meat often overlooked.

The class on carving will dig into the problem of special cuts, devoting part of the time on steak and crown, rib, and rolled roasts. Whether an entire pig will be used as an object lesson in knife wielding has not yet been decided upon.

Deserts to be Object Of Classroom Studies

A class in hot and cold deserts, designed to help women with their everyday menus and hostesses in entertaining at parties, will be taught in a night school class opening at the vocational school next month.

The first time it has been offered, this class will deal in both simple and complex, expensive and inexpensive deserts. According to Miss Mabel Burke, director of the home-making division of the school, it is planned to cooperate with local dairies in practical demonstrations of fancy ice cream dishes.

Registration at the vocational school will be held next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Sept. 21, 22, and 23.

Girl Athletes Will Have Weiner Roast This Week

A weiner roast for girls of Roosevelt school is scheduled for this week, according to Genevieve Kronschnabel, girls' physical education director. The date and place

Wisconsin Police Warned to Watch For Brady Gangmen

MILWAUKEE.—(U)—Police warned authorities of all Wisconsin cities today to be on the lookout for two men who were identified by a Hartford, Wis., filling station operator as Al Brady, Indiana bank bandit, and one of his chief aids, Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr.

Authorities said they had been informed the men carried two machine guns in the rear seat of their car, and they paced nervously about as they purchased 10 gallons of gasoline at the filling station. They headed in the direction of Milwaukee. Ray Haselow, station attendant, identified the two men from rogues' gallery photographs, police said.

A description of the men, their automobile, and the numbers of their Iowa license plates was broadcast by police. They drove either a black or blue car. Brady, Shaffer and James Dalhoffer, another member of the gang, are being hunted by federal bureau of investigation agents and local authorities throughout the middle west for four murders and several bank robberies.

will be chosen today. Games will be played with Miss Kronschnabel in charge.

East Makes Mistake in Allowing Double to Ride

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I am sending you a hand from last night's duplicate game. Considering that it was the only hand during the entire evening that I really enjoyed (which is just another way of saying that it was the only hand that returned me a good score), you will pardon me, I know, for doing some mild gloating. The hand contains some good points, I believe, as well as an amusing side.

"Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:
East South West North
1 diamond 1 heart Double Pass
Pass Pass Pass Pass

"I was South. I realized that my heart overall was pretty weak and felt far from happy when I heard West promptly, and somewhat emphatically, double. I felt better when East hesitated perceptibly before he left the double in, and considerably better when I saw the dummy.

"West opened the eight of diamonds. East won with the ace and returned a heart. I ducked and West, who obviously thought that his partner wanted to prevent diamond ruffs, went up with the heart ace and returned a heart. Dummy's jack won. East discarding a diamond. I reentered my hand with the diamond king and led a club. West hopped up and, apparently deciding that he would like to ruff a club, returned the five spot. Dummy's jack lost to East's ace. East now rightly decided that a club lead to dummy's tenace would be foolish, hence returned a diamond. I ruffed, laid down the king and queen of hearts, and then led a spade toward dummy. West, a cautious player, split his honors. Dummy's ace won and the club queen followed. West ruffed and laid down the spade king, neatly smothering his own partner's queen. He then had to make me a present of the last trick in spades.

"Naturally, I was highly elated, having fulfilled my doubled contract. But as a matter of fact, as I saw later on examination of the traveling score sheet, I could have gone down two tricks and still had a 'top'.

"Every East-West pair in the room, except this one, had romped home with three no trump, a contract which, of course, could have been defeated on the opening lead of the jack of hearts by North or a low heart opening by South, but which was made, I imagine, due to the fact that South's normal opening is the king of hearts.

"Am I right in thinking that East was at fault in leaving in the double of one heart? In his position I certainly would have rebid my diamonds.

"Yours very truly,
"A. R. T. Brooklyn."

You are quite right in your assumption that East erred in leaving in the double of one heart. He had an unbalanced hand and only a singleton heart. His general honor strength was not so great that he could hope to aid materially in the defense against a one contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Partner opened the bidding with one no trump. Opponents did not bid. I bid two clubs.

What should partner's next bid be with the following:

Salt of Sea and Land

II—WORK OF THE SUN

Every hour that passes means more salt added to the oceans and seas. All through the day, and all through the night, rivers are taking loads of salt to large bodies of water.

behind. This makes the sea become more and more salty. One gallon of Dead sea water contains about three and a half pounds of salt.

Almost the same story can be told about Great Salt Lake. It does not have outlets to keep the salt moving away at the same rate it comes in. The result is that it is becoming more and more salty.

Oceans are not nearly so salty as the Dead sea or Great Salt Lake. A gallon of ocean water contains only about five ounces of salt. There is so much ocean water, however, that a small part of the salt in it would make a mountain higher than Mount Everest. The Atlantic ocean alone contains enough salt to make mountains of salt larger than all the earth's mountains put together.

Sea water and ocean water give people a large part of their salt supply. In some places, ocean water at high tide is allowed to flow over low lands. The water is kept from flowing back by means of "gates." Then the sun dries up the water, and leaves the salt.

France, Portugal, Spain, Italy, China, India, and the United States are among the countries where salt is obtained by letting the sun work on sea water.

Manners Closely Related To Morals and Character

BY ANGELO PATRI

Dear Boys and Girls: I wish I could say something to you that would help you to see that there is such a thing as being too smart, too clever, too all-wise, too intelligent at the same time. Being intelligent is the highest state of being for you, and sometimes you let your craving for admiration overcome your intelligence and allow yourself to say or do something smart, too smart to be intelligent.

It is stupid to be ill-mannered. Manners bear close relations to morals to character. The young person who forgets to stand until his teacher finds a chair; who enters the assembly room chewing gum; who interrupts people at their work or in their conversation to get his own word in, and looks about him for glances of admiration from the other pupils, thinks he is smart. Other folk, those who count for most in his life, have decidedly different opinions. They think him stupid and when occasion offers, say so.

It is stupid to be selfish. The pupil who gets out of line and pushes someone else out of his way in order to be served first; who takes four sheets of drawing paper when two are his allowance; who shoots down stairs three steps at a time when others are making their way down in regulated fashion; who insists upon the instructor's seeing his paper first, attending to him first, making an exception in his case always, and fancies that he is the center of admiring glances from those not so smart, is mistaken. He is being stupid because those who have been inconvenienced by his selfishness are united in their opinion of him. They dislike him and all his ways, and some day he is going to feel the weight of that dislike.

There is always the temptation to say the bright smart thing, to astound the teacher or confound the conventional relative with the latest catchword, but it is a mistake to be too smart. Many people have been bitterly sorry for the smart bright things they have said, but comparatively few have been sorry for not saying them. Once the smart thing has escaped you and sped to its mark, it stands. It is an indelible record of your short-sighted, selfish, shallow mind. Only the shallow mind allows its tongue to condemn it. The mind that thinks through a situation before expressing itself seldom makes the mistake of saying the wrong thing brilliantly.

Sharp, sparkling words hurt people. People are hurt often enough in the routine of daily living, and they resent unnecessary wounds, especially from those to whom they look for friendship, companionship and cooperation. Nobody, and this applies more particularly to the young than to the rest of us, can live successfully without the cooperation of other people, beginning with those closest to us. If for no other reason, selfishness should put a guard on the tongue.

But there ought to be other reasons quite as compelling for soft-

Cream Rouge Is Nearest To Natural

BY ELSIE PIERCE

A reader challenges: "Do you really believe in cream rouge? Do you feel that the average woman knows how to use it? Can you tell me why cream rouge should flare up after it is on the face for a while. I had a very embarrassing experience recently: applied a good brand of cream rouge, in good light, in what I thought was the proper fashion and in a shade that was recommended by a so-called beauty consultant who seemed to know her make-up. As I say it seemed O. K., yet when I walked out into the street and sunlight some fifteen minutes later a friend facetiously said something about being sure I had descended from the Indians."

Do I believe in cream rouge? Decidedly yes. It is the nearest to natural, if properly applied. Do I feel that the average woman knows how to use it? Frankly I do not, but judging from reports from cosmetic counters more and more women are learning. Cream rouge requires skill and patience for the most natural and flattering effect. It is true that very often after the rouge is on the skin for a few minutes there is a chemical reaction and the full color shows up more than when rouge is first applied. Also, in the case of cream rouge, it is better to err on the conservative side. Still further, it is easier to add more rouge, if necessary, than to tone down the color. Therefore, I always recommend that just a little be applied, then a little more as needed.

Method of Application

Cream rouge is best applied over a foundation cream or lotion. In the case of an average or oily skin the skin tonic makes a good rouge base. After the skin is cleansed it should be patted with tonic, then only the excess moisture removed, the skin blotted with a tissue and a little moisture allowed to remain on the cheeks. Over this the rouge should go on very smoothly.

Apply the rouge in three little dabs high on the cheeks, then with fingertips blend so that the rouge spreads smoothly in one even color. Be sure that the edges fade away instead of leaving a definite, harsh outline.

Over this carefully apply powder. Dust off excess with a pad of cotton, a clean puff or a powder blending brush. Finally, if more color is desired touch a bit of compact rouge over the powder. This should give a lovely, natural and lasting make-up. The cream rouge, you see, acts as a color base.

Sacrifices Necessary to Solve Family Problems

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—My husband and I have been happily married for fourteen years and have two children. For the last year he has been a traveling salesman and is gone one, two and sometimes three weeks at a time. I get so lonely and depressed that I think I am losing my mind. He can work in the office but will make less money, and he says that the only way he can get ahead is by traveling. I want him to succeed and don't want to be a drawback, but on the other hand I wonder if a happy home life would not be worth more money to us. Children need a father's guiding hand. Besides, I know that my husband drinks too much when he is away from home. After all he gets lonely, too, and I suppose temptations are great. Sometimes I imagine all kinds of things. Can you offer a solution?

AN UNHAPPY WIFE.

Answer:

The solution to your problem is very simple. It consists in either your husband giving up his job as a traveling salesman or for you to brace up and meet the situation with more philosophy.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

REPEATED FORMS IN BEST USAGE

Dear Mrs. Post: Why is "Mrs. Mary" not more truthful than "Mrs. John" after "John" has died? In other words, how can there be a Mrs. John when there is no longer a John?

Answer: Because John gave Mary his name for life — unless she marries again. But the principal reason against it is solely one of taste, and etiquette is of course concerned with taste. According to best social precepts, Mrs. Mary has the same rating as yellow shoes with a man's evening clothes. I don't know how else to describe the tabu.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a widow. My son, who bears his father's name, is going to marry soon. The thought of giving up my name, which has always made me feel nearer to the grand person who gave it to me years ago in these many years that I have been carrying on without him, makes me sad indeed. My son says he doesn't know any other way unless he again calls himself "Junior." Do you think it will be necessary for my son's wife and me to have some distinguishing change in a big city in which we will live far apart?

Answer: Correctly you add "Senior" to your name, but in many cases, for the very reason you describe, the son continues to use "Junior." In any case his wife's name must be the same as his. Legally, he has no right to junior after his father's death and therefore its use could be a social one only.

Dear Mrs. Post: My son has recently become an M.D. He had always written his name with a Junior after it since he was named for his father, who I am happy to say is still living. Since his father writes his name with the ordinary title "Mr." should my son now write his name without "Junior"?

Answer: His name should be "John Herrington Smith Jr." The fact that he has an M.D. and his father uses "Mr." has nothing whatever to do with the "Jr." Junior, which is an actual part of his name for so long as his father lives.

Dear Mrs. Post: What does one call a sister-in-law whom one seldom sees and didn't know at all before her marriage to my brother? Naturally she seems little more than a stranger under the circumstances.

Answer: You call her by her first name — there is nothing else to call her.

Dear Mrs. Post: How does a beauty shop operator address a customer when she doesn't happen to know her name? I am referring to the transient customer who asks to have some work done immediately and doesn't give her name. We would also like to know what the receptionist should call her when she turns her over to the operator.

Answer: Under these and all other circumstances the proper way to address a lady or speak of her is "Madam," as "Please show Madam into the grey salon for a gardenia facial." Not "show Mrs. err-a" or "show this lady."

(Copyright, 1937)

Dear Dorothy Dix—Do you think it best for a man in his middle thirties to select a girl in her teens or one near his own age for his wife? Please give your reasons for choice.

BILL.

Answer:

The wise choice is a girl who is in his own-age class, somewhere around the late twenties or early thirties. Not once in a thousand times will a marriage between a man in his middle thirties and a girl in her teens turn out happily.

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. L. FARRINGTON

Geraniums and begonias, which have been used as bedding plants during the summer, may be potted up and taken into the house. These plants will furnish flowers for several weeks if they are taken in before frosts injure them. It is a mistake to leave plants in the beds until they need to be covered to protect them from frost. Such plants, even though they are apparently uninjured, will never do as well as plants which are brought in early. Both begonias and geraniums should be cut back hard when potted, unless young plants can be found in the beds. Young plants, either from the garden or from the florist, should be confined to small pots at first, and shifted to larger pots as the pots become filled with roots. This condition is really detected by the fact that the roots can be seen through the drainage hole, or the ball of earth can be turned out for examination.

Buying in Steel Market Gaining Over August Mark

Substantial Business, Without Congestion, Seen for Remainder of Year

The steel market is gradually assuming its fall pattern, with improvement continued in lighter products and a better outlook for bookings in heavier steel. Buying is 15 to 20 per cent better than in August, in the important centers, though this is a comparison with practically the low point of the summer, says Steel.

It seems apparent that various factors are combining to bring a quieter situation for the remainder of the year, although substantial business is probable, without the congestion that marked the early months. Railroad buying is interfered with by questions of rates and wages and automotive buying has not developed to the extent expected. One reason for the latter is that models have been changed little and steel already in stock can be utilized.

Since prices have been determined for the remainder of the year and deliveries are not difficult, consumers have no incentive to press for further contracts. A hindering factor for plantmakers in the East is probability of award soon of a liner for United States Lines, which will require about 16,000 tons of hull steel. Export inquiry continues in good volume though individual lots are not large.

Rebounds 8 Points
Steel production, emerging last week from the influence of the Labor day holiday, rebounded 8 points to a national rate of 80 per cent of capacity. Practically all important centers made major increases and some shortening was noted in various smaller centers.

Pittsburgh regained 15 points to 84 per cent, Chicago 10 points to 83, Wheeling 13 points to 89, Youngstown 5 to 70, Cleveland 1 to 63, and New England 10 to 75. Eastern Pennsylvania declined 1.5 points to 63, Buffalo 9 to 70, Detroit 5 to 95, Cincinnati 9 to 80 and St. Louis 3 to 74. No change was made at Birmingham, Ala., at 91 per cent. The rate of 80 per cent is slightly below that prevailing in August and may be due in some measure to repair work in getting open hearths in condition for fall activity.

A factor in sustained ingot production in the face of light buying of finished steel is scarcity of semifinished steel. Demand has been so strong for many months that stocks in the hands of producers and rollers have become depleted and advantage is being taken of the opportunity to replenish the supply. Non-integrated producers of finished steel have been in need of the semifinished steel and have been hard pressed to obtain sufficient for their needs.

Imports of steel and iron products into the United States in July were slightly larger than in June, 47,012 gross tons compared with 44,771 tons. For seven months imports, excluding scrap, were 308,945 tons, compared with 291,396 tons in the same period of 1936. While the gain in quality was 5.3 per cent, the increase in value was 27.3 per cent, a reflection of the higher world prices now prevailing in steel.

British Marks Strong
British steel markets are strong, with bookings well into next year and some deliveries not available until then on current buying. Resumption of iron ore shipments from the Bilbao district in Spain has eased the pig iron situation somewhat. Semifinished steel continues scarce in spite of large imports from the Continent. Production in August fell off somewhat from July, due to midsummer holidays.

Influence of the changes in automobile models had its sharpest effect last week, total production being 30,150 cars, compared with 59,017 the preceding week. General Motors produced 13,700 cars compared with 23,096, Ford 5000 compared with 26,000 and Chrysler 1570 compared with 2100. Other builders showed a slight gain with 9700, compared with 7821 the previous week.

Continued weakness in steel scrap, resulting from absence of buying, has depressed prices of steelmaking grades further and Steel's composite declined last week to $19.08, a drop of 25 cents, placing this indicator practically at the level of the fourth week of July. This is $2.08 higher than in late June and $3 under the high point at the beginning of April. The same influence brought the iron and steel scrap composite down 2 cents to $40.19. The finished steel composite is unchanged.

State Federation Board Wants Vigorous Defense Against Attacks of CIO

Manitowoc—(P)—The Wisconsin State Federation of Labor's general executive board declared today for a more vigorous defense against attack from the CIO.

Reporting to the federation's forty-fifth annual convention, the board discussed the cost of combating "pernicious activities of certain seceding groups" in 1936-37, and asserted "we may anticipate a greater outlay during the coming year."

The board warned against "the wiles of CIO representatives" who "do their mischief by fraternizing with those whom they pick for victimization" and said the convention could not permit "in our deliberations . . . those who would destroy us."

"Our doors are properly open to all," the report added, "but only on the basis of cooperative endeavors and keeping faith with one another. And on this basis we shall re-establish unity."

Progress was claimed in the federation's organization, educational and legislative programs despite the handicap of "treason which demanded prior attention."

"The destructive agencies that have set out to destroy and supplant our movement have not only been held in check, but have been consistently rebuffed in their nefarious scheming against the legitimate labor movement," said the report.

The board held that the 1936 convention, in voting a policy of unity labor ranks, had no thought of a unity which would surrender "our movement to a group of deserters."

"We are convinced that the great membership of our federation expects its officers to defend our movement against all encroachments," the board said. "This duty the officers have carried out with a marked degree of success."

The board discussed the "vicious assault upon the organized labor movement" in recent months and said "the tragedy of it all is that the perpetrators, organized as the CIO, are men who had sworn allegiance to our cause and who rebelled when their efforts to dictate the destinies of our movement failed."

See Link With Reds
These men were accused of setting out to "disorganize, disrupt and undermine" and it was charged that in Wisconsin there was a definite tie-up between "the CIO and the communists."

The board said the A. F. of L. has held its "position all along the line" and membership losses due to CIO secessions have been offset by new enrollments in American Federation of Labor unions.

The board mentioned the acquisition of 181 new local unions in Wisconsin since June 30, 1936. There was no report of new membership totals, but in a pro-convention statement, J. J. Handley, federation secretary-treasurer, placed the figure at 75,000.

The board reviewed the case of Assemblyman Emil Costello, suspended from the executive board for CIO activity. The A. F. of L. has since expelled Costello and suspended the charter of the Simmons Co. Federal union of Kenosha. This action followed the Simmons union's refusal to countenance Costello's removal from its presidency.

Political Stand

Discussing the Wisconsin Farmer-Labor Progressive Federation, the board reminded the unionists the establishment of the federation will serve no purpose unless they "support it and make it sufficiently powerful in influence so as to be effective to disseminate political education and select and elect to office such candidates as are in accord with the program of labor and farmers."

Handley reported receipts during the year ended last June 30 totaled $33,906 and disbursements $24,147. The balance, including funds on hand July 1, 1936, was $22,984.

Will Add New Dining

Room to Restaurant

The Copper Kettle restaurant, 531 West College avenue, has leased additional space in the building adjoining its east side and will enlarge its facilities.

The new addition, 32 by 40 feet in size, will be made into a dining room, with an archway leading into it from the present restaurant. Work will start this week and is expected to be completed by Oct. 1. The building in which the space has been leased is owned by the Appleton Holding company.

President Unfair To Bar Members, Lawrence States

Speech Reflected Antagonism Towards Lawyers, He Writes

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—President Roosevelt told a nationwide radio audience last Friday that the constitution was "a layman's document—not a lawyer's contract." He declared that "Madison, most responsible for it, was not a lawyer."

Yet a reading of the official "story" of the constitution, as issued by the United States constitutional commission, says the exact opposite. The book contains a section entitled "Portraits and Sketches of the Signers of the Constitution," and on page 62 is a portrait of Madison under which is the following:

"Lawyer, statesman, Virginia convention, legislature, and council, continental congress, 1780-83, 1887-88 etc."

Likewise there is a government document, printed in 1927 under the direction of H. H. B. Meyer of the legislative reference service in the library of congress, which shows that more than 50 per cent of the members of the constitutional convention were lawyers. It states that 19 out of the 39 signers were lawyers. Some historians insist that their research will show that even more than 50 per cent of the convention were lawyers because the figures here given includes only the certain cases where legal record has been proved.

The attack which Mr. Roosevelt made on the lawyers of the United States has occasioned no surprise here, for Mr. Roosevelt, though himself a member of the bar, has heretofore taken a number of shots at the legal profession. But what is surprising is that Mr. Roosevelt went so far in his speech on Constitution day as to accuse a whole profession of what amounts to deceit and trickery. Thus, this paragraph about the constitution has evoked much comment:

"This great layman's document—completely different from the 'whereas' and the 'parties of the first part' and the fine print which lawyers put into leases and insurance policies and installment agreements."

Why in this vein Did the president mean by "fine print" that lawyers have a way of trying to deceive the layman? Even fine print is resorted to in contracts, isn't that usually the action of the issuing companies? Why does Mr. Roosevelt speak of insurance policies in this vein?

Many lawyers heretofore consider that the president's speech was a deliberate effort to arouse antagonism against the lawyers of the country just because they happened, by an overwhelming referendum, to have voted against Mr. Roosevelt's plan to "pack" the supreme court.

When the president had a chance to make his first appointment to the supreme court of the United States, it is true that he did not give consideration to legal qualifications. Senator Black is by no means an outstanding lawyer. His principal experience in the law was as a police court judge. It may be that Mr. Roosevelt is conscious of the criticism leveled against Mr. Black for his lack of legal scholarship and is getting ready to argue that laymen are just as good on the supreme court as lawyers. There are, indeed, among the radicals and extremists many who have been advocating that laymen be appointed on the supreme court of the United States. Their ignorance of the real work of the supreme court is exceeded only by their disregard of constitutional law itself. They want precedents brushed aside and the whole structure of the English common law, as it has been known for several centuries, to be destroyed.

Ninety-five per cent, or even more, of the cases before the supreme court have nothing to do with constitutional controversies. They consist of complicated and technical legal questions that arise in both the federal and state courts of the nation. Nobody who has not had a legal education could possibly cope with them. These cases do not attract national attention because they are unspectacular and not dramatic and do not relate to any claim of unconstitutionality, but they constitute the real work of a supreme court justice.

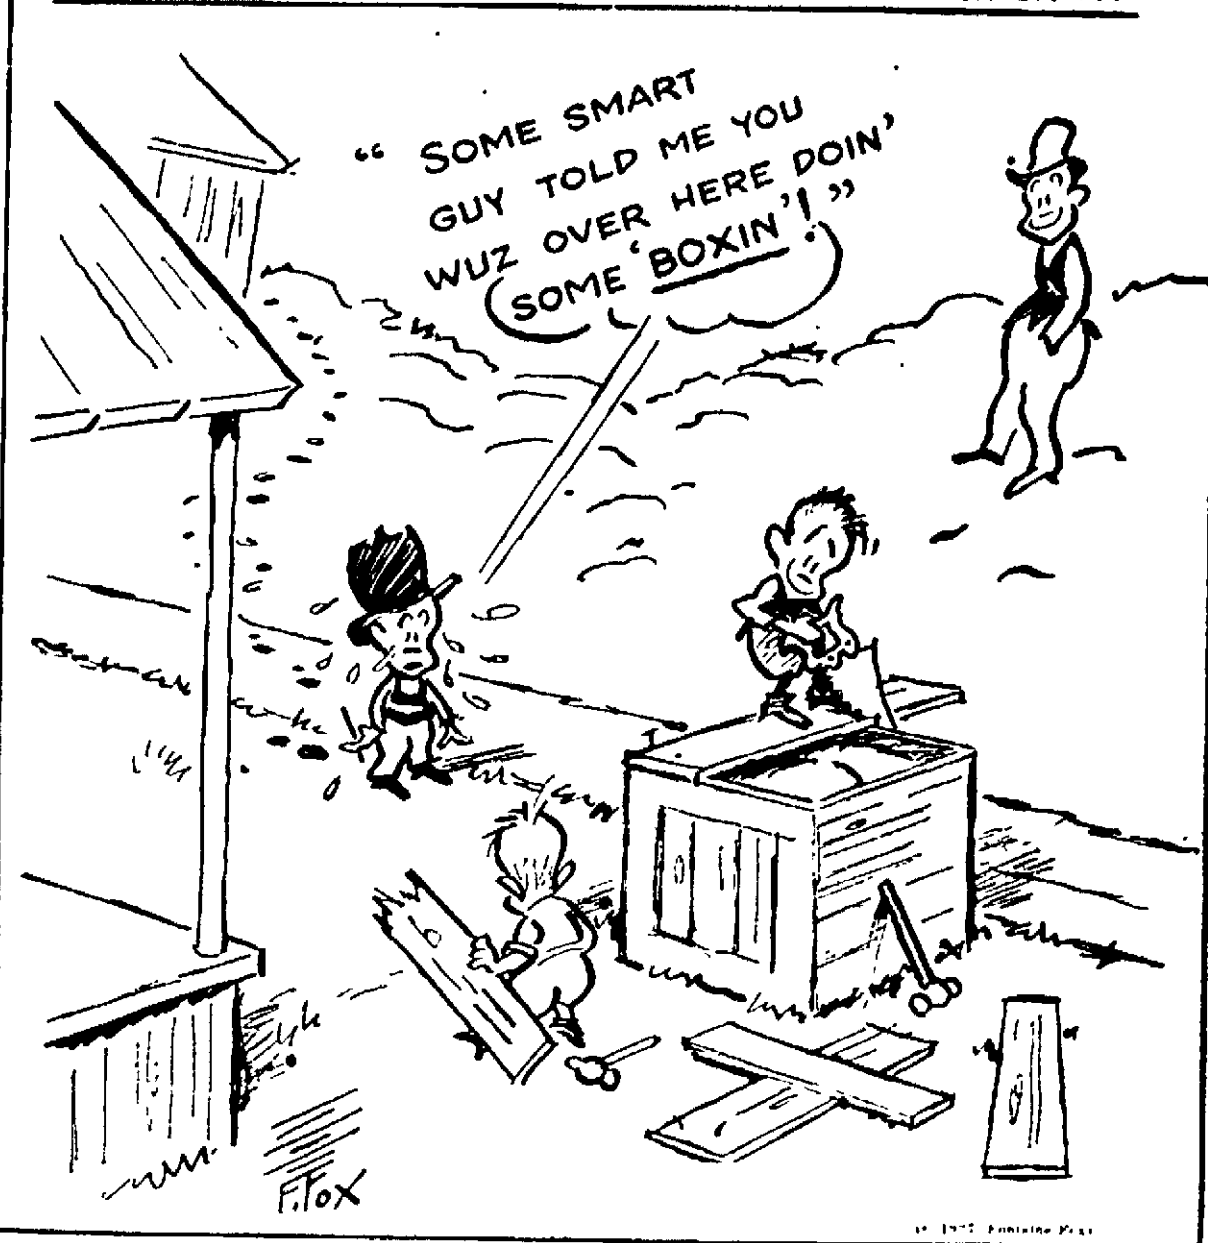

In the concluding portion of his speech, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed his real feeling about precedents and the background of the whole American system of law. He said: "I ask that they (the American people) evict the atrocious simplicity of its (the constitution's) purposes rather than a century of complicated legalism."

Does Mr. Roosevelt want the country to understand that the 100 years or more of constitutional law are now to be relegated to the trash heap and that rules for the government of the American people which have grown up as they properly should, in law suits brought under the constitution, now must be discarded? What is to take its place—a "layman's supreme court," perhaps made up of members of the Klu Klux Klan, to decide questions according to the political sentiment or racial or religious prejudices of the moment? May be the president was thinking of the Hitler method in Germany, where, in the summer of 1935, a law was promulgated which admonishes the courts, that where offenses are not punishable under the penal code, they shall be punished when they deserve it "according to the underlying healthy public sentiment." This, of course, is simpler than "complicated legalism."

Buying Telephone Service Is Spending Wisely

WHEN you buy telephone service you may sometimes wonder: "Where does the money go that I spend for telephone service?"

Well, where does it go? In 1936, about 40 per cent was expended for salaries and wages. Fourteen per cent went for taxes. Other amounts cover materials and supplies, depreciation, rents, interest on borrowed funds and dividends to preferred and common stockholders whose money is invested in the property.

The money you spend for telephone service is well spent. It buys a service that is worth many times its cost. Much of the money is paid in wages to employees and thus to stores, to doctors, to all businesses of the city. It is spent for taxes to support schools, courts, government; for fire and police protection; for opportunities for our children. It purchases the products of factories, mines and stores.

It is our endeavor to make the dollar you wisely spend for telephone service reach as far as possible—to give you the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.

Lawrence Gridders Hold First Scrimmage

Vikings Meet Northwestern College Here
Saturday*LINE TO BE LIGHT*High School Gets Hard
Workout for West
Friday Night

LAWRENCE college football squad, faced with its first game Saturday afternoon when it meets Northwestern of Watertown at Whiting field, indulged in the first scrimmage of the season yesterday afternoon. Today the Vikings held two drills which featured scrimmage. Starting tomorrow there will be one workout a day as classes get underway.

Yesterday's workout of the Vikes revealed that the line is green, will be fairly light and that the squad appears to be lacking greatly in reserves unless some of the boys now missing report.

Cliff Burton was given the starting assignment at left end yesterday while Jack Crawford worked at right. Burton was used occasionally as a center last year and Crawford was a reserve end. The latter showed well against Ripon. At the tackle position Green Bay and Carleton Grode, Menasha, the Viking captain, were first choices. Bodilly was a student performer at Green Bay West in his high school days but hasn't any experience in college ball. Grode, of course, is a veteran.

Garvey at Center
Bill Hatten, who worked at center last season was at one guard and Mike Galko, a veteran performer at the other. Both lack size, however. Dick Garvey, Appleton, tossed the ball at center position that is rather new to him. He was an end in high school and a back on the freshman squad.

Some of the line replacements were Bob Laird, Black Creek, who has been on the squad for three seasons, Bill Masterson, who lacks experience, Chuck Gerlach, who has played some ball but who was not on the squad last season, Matt Miller, Seibold and Fischer. The latter three lack varsity line experience. Fischer was a back last year.

In the backfield, the Vikes had two clever halves in Ken Buesing, Appleton, and Alby Novakowski, Menasha. Both have considerable open field running ability and can grab passes while Buesing pitches a few. Joe Maertzwiler performed at quarter and did a lot of the blocking. He's a veteran. The other starting back was Bill Lohr, Appleton, who is new to the sport.

Two Backs Ailing
Evan Vande Walle, Nichols, probably will work at full when he recovers from a minor injury. He is a veteran performer. Ken Westberg, Menasha, who was looked upon to be another fullback prospect, is nursing an injured shoulder.

On offense the Vikings looked fair against a green opponent with a secondary defense that left much to be desired. The starters counted four touchdowns during the workout.

Northwestern, a Lutheran squad, played its first game last week beating Tereville's Lutheran squad, 33 to 0.

Appleton High school gridgers, who defeated St. Mary's Saturday, 20 to 6, got the surprise of their lives when Coach Wallace Cole sent them through a long drill and scrimmage. Ordinarily Monday is an off day for the gridgers but with Green Bay West the opponent Friday night at Green Bay, there isn't any time to rest. The game will be the conference opener.

Coach Cole and his assistant, Myron Seims, have something of a job on their hands getting their charges in the right frame of mind for West. The Terrors copped rather easily from St. Mary's and with West losing to Milwaukee Custer, 32 to 0, there may be an inclination to loaf.

West Line Strong
But the highs would do well to remember that Custer has its best team in years, that it has a passer the like of whom hasn't been seen in Milwaukee football in many years. Too, West stopped everything the invaders tried through its line and on a couple occasions its backs showed speed and possibilities. If Custer hadn't had a perfect passing attack things might not have gone so well.

Sonny Filz, who scampers hither and yon for the Terrors Saturday and registered two markers, has definitely earned a place on the varsity squad in the tailback position. Don Mueller, tackle, who left the game Saturday after a kick in the ribs, reported that he was feeling all right. However, Kramer, a transfer from Antigo, is being groomed as a replacement in case the injury shows again.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By the Associated Press
Carl Hubbell, Giants—Pitched shutout ball in seven inning relief, allowing four hits and fanning six to beat Cards 10-3.
Lefty Gomez, Yankees—Blanked Tigers 5-0 with four hits, fanning nine.
Gabby Hartnett, Cubs—His two-run double provided winning margin for 5-4 victory over Dodgers.
Ethan Allen, Browns, and Ben Chapman, Red Sox—Allen hit three-for-three and drove in three runs in 8-6 opener win; Chapman had four-for-four in 7-5 nightcap win, batted in one run and scored two others.

Guldahl Adds Western Title to His List

Cleveland—J. Ralph Guldahl, the 25-year-old Chicagoan, occupied today a new niche in golf's hall of fame as the first in history to win the national open and the western open championships in the same year.
He also was the fourth golfer, in all history to successfully defend his western open championship, ranking with Willie Anderson, "Long Jim" Barnes, and Walter Hagen.

Guldahl beat Horton Smith for the western title scoring 72 to win by 4 strokes after tying at 288 for the regulation 72-hole distance.

Managers in Torrid National League Baseball Race

It's a big puzzle to Charlie Grimm, manager of the Chicago Cubs, to figure out how his team's jumping-jack contest with the New York Giants is going to end. Part of the season it looked like the Cubs would walk into the World Series, then the Giants bounced back up.

William's worried too over his team's chances of getting into the World Series. Although he has a fat new contract in his pocket, Memphis Bill Terry, guiding genius of the Giants, wants that National League pennant right alongside it. The job's no cinch for a manager.

Cubs, Giants Tangle Today in Series That May Settle N. L. Pennant Race

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
FROM all angles—pitching, hitting or quadrilateral—the Cubs and Giants figure to show a brand new way of going about the business of beating off each other's ears in their current crucial series for the National League pennant.
Simply because they're two altogether different ball clubs than they were as late as a month ago, all performances in previous meetings can be tossed into the discard in figuring the three-game set that got under way in Chicago today.
The Giants, with more power and a vast improvement in their two top right-handers, Hal Schumacher and Harry Gumbert, are far stronger than the team which has lost 11 of 19 games to the Cubs this year.
Chicago, on the other hand, boasts three far improved twirlers in Larry French, Tex Carleton and comebacking Curt Davis. With Rip per Collins back after a month's hospital stay, and Gabby Hartnett hammering the cover off the ball, they are well up in their stock of pitchers' poison.

King Carl Hubbell will probably see action for the Giants only as a relief flinger, if at all. He was taking a well-earned rest today after becoming the first National League pitcher to win 20 games this year, with an elegant fourth-inning, seven-inning relief trick against the Cardinals yesterday, as the Giants gassed the Gas House Gang 10-3. This left the New Yorkers 21 games in front, since the second place Cubs beat Brooklyn 5-4 after stopping a four-run Dodger rally in the ninth.
Hubbell missed by some three hours the distinction of becoming the first 20-game winner in the big leagues. Lefty Gomez beat him to it

MOLESWORTH AND MUSSO

Chicago—J. Keith Molesworth, fleet halfback, and George Musso, husky guard, will not be with the Chicago Bears when the National Professional league club plays an exhibition at Duluth Tuesday night. Molesworth suffered torn muscles in his side against the Green Bay Packers Sunday and Musso will have his tonsils removed. The Bears also will play an exhibition game here Friday.

ALL EYES ON CHICAGO

Chicago—P—The eyes of the baseball world centered today on Wrigley Field where Chicago's Cubs and the New York Giants squared off for a three-game series expected to determine the National League championship.
The series generally was conceded to be the Cubs' last stand in their battle to capture the 1937 flag. Two and one-half games behind the hot, pace-setting New Yorkers, the Chicago club must win at least two games out of three to retain a fair chance of emerging on top before the season closes Sept. 30.
Including today's tilt, the Chicagoans have 13 games remaining on their schedule to 16 for New York. Should the Giants who have won 85 games and lost 53 for a percentage of .616, win but half of their remaining games, the Cubs would have to win nine out of 13 to tie the New Yorkers at the wire.
Larry French, dependable southpaw, was Manager Charles Grimm's pitching choice, with Harry Gumbert, a right-hander, the mound nomination for the Giants.

With a four-hit, 5-0 win for the Yankees over the Tigers.

In the other tilt on yesterday's curtailed program, the Browns and Boston Red Sox split a doubleheader, St. Louis winning the opener 8-6 and dropping the nightcap 7-5. All other clubs had the day off.

AND so the football season gets underway.
Appleton High school gridgers looked good for a while as they opened against St. Mary's Saturday but thereafter they needed something. Just what it was is a question.

During the half intermission someone sided up to Charles Sample, the Terrors' big back, and asked him what the trouble was. His answer was that the boys didn't feel like working any harder and running up a big score. Which may or may not have been all right.

But the Terrors had better remember that the conference race will be tough. West lost to a great team and won't be a setup for anyone in the conference. East polished off a Madison team which means the Red Devils are going to be tough. Sheboygan showed class in playing another Madison team to a scoreless tie while

Benz Will Lead Badger Gridders

Named Captain for Opening Game: Grades Endanger Several Men

Madison—J—Fred Benz, veteran end of Milwaukee, will be captain of the University of Wisconsin football team in the opening game against South Dakota State Saturday. Coach

Harry Stuhldreher announced.

An acting captain will be picked before each game and at the end of the season an honorary leader will be elected by the players.

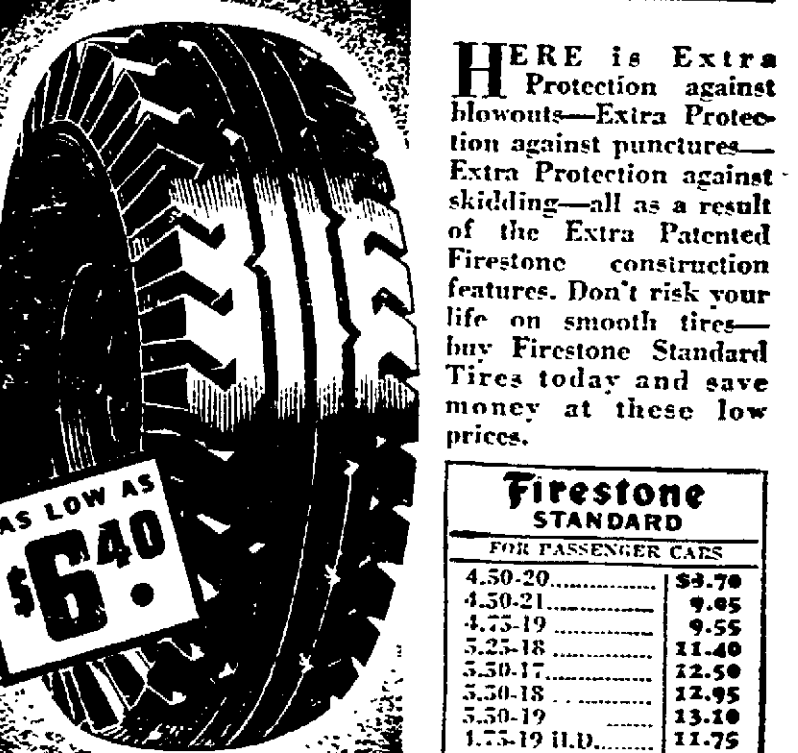

Jack Murray, Plymouth, Pa. center, passed his correspondence examination, assuring his eligibility. Orville Fischer, Fargo, N. D., center Bert Conley, Green Bay, tackle; Ed Hartman, Pottsville, Pa., quarterback; Jim Rioridan, Rhinelander, end; and Clem Eiden, tackle, Evanston, Ill., must clear "con" exams before they can play.

Californians Take World Yachting Title

Port Washington, N. Y.—J—Although the Pimm, Germany's entry in the fifteenth annual star class yacht world championship, made history by being the first boat to win four straight races in the series, the title is on its way to California today.

The University of Southern California seniors and rank outsiders in pre-race calculations, Milton Wecforth, the skipper, and Ernest Phillips, the crew, finished second, sixth, twice, fifth, and third to garner 164 points with the Lecky to win the championship. The Pimm was second with 159 points.
With a 20 mile northwest blowing yesterday, the Californians, seeking fifth place or better, played safe. Six boats were disabled by the wind and three more were discouraged for jumping the starting gun. Lecky was the first away and the third to finish.

Drake Gone but Isbell Can Pace Purdue's Attack

6-Foot Halfback Stars as Boilermakers Prepare For Butler

CHICAGO—(AP)—Purdue will be represented in this fall's Big Ten grid campaign by only half of its great backfield combination of 1936, but Cecil Isbell apparently is well qualified to carry on where John Drake left off.

Drake and Isbell were recognized as two of the finest backs in the conference last season. Graduation took Drake, a six-foot, 190 pound halfback is demonstrating his fitness to pace the Boilermaker offense. Yesterday his running and passing featured a Purdue scrimmage. The Boilermakers open against Butler Saturday.

Injuries sidelined a number of first stringers at Illinois. Jay Wardley, regular quarterback, is on the sidelines with a sore knee, and may not see action against Ohio university Saturday. The passing of Louis Letts, a sophomore, was a bright note as Chicago went through a brisk scrimmage.

Indiana, prepping for Centre college Saturday, concentrated on new plays. Coach E. McMillin announced that Jim Ellenwood, sophomore tackle prospect, will be out of action at least three weeks because of pulled elbow muscles. Michigan worked out behind gates locked to spectators.

Iowa, which goes to Seattle Saturday for a tough game with Washington, scrimmaged against reserves and had trouble solving plays used by the Pacific coast champions.

Northwestern went through a long passing drill and Minnesota came through with more evidence that the Gophers again will be hard to stop. Coach Bernie Bierman's second team pushed over four touchdowns against a group of third stringers, indicating the Gopher regulars will have plenty of capable replacements.

Trucker Eleven Shows Friday

Makes Season's Debut Against Strong Appleton Reds

Clintonville—The pigskin parade will romp through Clintonville this fall as the FWD Truckers, newly organized gridiron squad, meet aggregations of prominent gridgers beneath the floodlights at Central Park.

Sept. 24 is the date of the first evening game scheduled, according to Manager R. A. Olen. That night, the Appleton Reds will line up on the gridiron opposite the Truckers. A stiff game is anticipated. Both elevens now are engaged in regular practice and should provide fans with plenty of excitement.

Garbed in cardinal and gold, the FWD men will appear for their first engagement in new uniforms and equipment. Recognition of the enthusiasm for the game by members of the squad was shown this week by the Four Wheel Drive Auto company when it purchased $300 worth of football equipment for its employees who are members of the team.

Football teams and managers in cities throughout Wisconsin and Upper Michigan have written Manager Olen, requesting games. Besides the opener, Sept. 24, the Truckers have a game tentatively scheduled for Oct. 8 with the Cherryland Marines of Door County.

Other requests have come from Merrill, the Cooper Knitters of Kenosha, the Sheboygan A. A. Kaukauna, Port Washington, Mayville, and the strong, husky grid squad of Stambaugh, Michigan, up in the heart of northern Michigan's football country.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Friends of Clark Hinkle, cousin of the famous football player, are disappointed by the Cincinnati club's announcement that Charlie Dreesen's successor will be a National League player. BUDGE'S OWN WORLD

By The AP Feature Service
NOT since the rosiest days of Bill Tilden—if even then—has a tennis player reached the dizzy heights of superiority attained this summer by Donald Budge, the Oakland redhead.

Budge, the silent, phlegmatic youngster of 22 is out there all alone. His three defeats of the Baron Gottfried Von Cramm of Germany, the last in the recent national championships at Forest Hills, have placed him in a class by himself among the amateurs.

There isn't even the prospect of a serious rival for his throne next year. Budge is far too good for the crop coming up, though Bobby Riggs, another California product, may be expected to extend him now and then before Don joins the professional ranks at the close of the 1938 campaign.

Tilden Bracketed With Budge
At Wimbledon, where they know considerable about tennis, they say there has been only one player in the history of tennis who might have trimmed the Oakland slasher. That, of course, was Tilden. The "old master," some of them contend, had a greater variety of strokes and would have out-thought Budge in a tight match where the blue chips were down. Others doubt that. Budge, with his blazing power, doesn't need to do a great deal of thinking.

The opinion around Forest Hills was that the amateur king—pin could jump into the money arena with Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry right now and nail them to the boards. With another year's amateur play behind him they don't figure it will even be close after a few one-night stands.

That's pretty heady stuff for a youngster Budge's age to absorb. He can't help reading the papers now and then, and even conceding that he's not the literary type, the swarms of autograph hunters and those others who cling to champion's coat-tails are bound to have impressed on him that he is something pretty special. There is a lot of talk that this adulation has had its effect.

Budge Always Tactful
The simple truth is that nobody can tell for certain. Even in 1934, the year he "arrived" so suddenly and beat Von Cramm in the Davis Cup interzone final at Wimbledon, Budge didn't have anything to say, except in monosyllables. He still doesn't do any talking unless pressed, and he never was the type to holler at friends across the street. The truth possibly is that the average person is quick to imagine a slight from a champion, because champions are popularly believed to develop abnormally about the cranium. At least, nobody has yet accused Budge of talking out of turn.

One of the most popular myths concerning Budge is that on his first appearance in the famous center court at Wimbledon, he waved his racket at Queen Mary and shouted "hello Quennie." He's never troubled to deny it for print, and it's fast becoming a classic. The only thing is, it didn't happen. On that momentous occasion Budge came smartly to attention as the queen entered the royal box and bowed slightly with his head, the correct thing to do. Still, it's a good yarn if you believe it.

A judge of character might find something a little noble about Budge in the way he has stuck to Geng Mako, his original doubles partner. There are quite a few better doubles players than Mako hanging around, eating their hearts out for a chance to play in the Davis Cup, and the selectors know it. They wanted to make a change the past season, but Budge balked. They want to equip Don with a new partner for next year, so we will be sure of keeping the Davis Cup, yet it is very doubtful they will put it over. They won't try to push Budge too far.

Ambition Brought Don To Top
Although he has received some good coaching since he won his first important event—the California championship for boys under 15 in 1930—it was Budge's own consuming ambition that brought him to the top of the world this year. He was a very fine player two years ago, but he had an indifferent forehead. That is, it was a pretty good forehead, but not nearly as good as the Budge backhand.

It would have been easy for the redhead to answer his critics: "Well it's a good enough forehead to beat you." But he didn't. When the playing season ended he went to California and went to work on it. He made the most radical change possible, from a "western" or "topped" shot, employing wrist movement, to the "eastern" flat drive. Now he has about as good a forehead as there is in the game.

His backhand, which came naturally, never has been tampered with. His heaviest artillery is on that side. Rival players, through force of habit, hit too many balls to Don's backhand. He loves that.

A perfect natural backhand, a "made" forehead that's as good as any in the game and all the power a well-conditioned, 180-pound, 61-foot body can develop guarantee Budge's supremacy for some time.

Don didn't really start to grow until he was nearly 16 but, once started, he made up for lost time. In one year he grew seven inches. Here he is at 5, timid, silent, unaware of tennis.

His parents kept a camera around their Oakland, Calif., home but the champion was 7 before he could face the lens like this. He still treasures a broken toy locomotive.

First real fame came to Budge in 1933, aged 18, when he won the Oakland city championship after only three years of tournament tennis. Then, as now, he was no back-slapper.

The world's No. 1 tennis player was glad to see his mother when he returned from his Eastern tour a year ago. This year the whole town will turn out to welcome him.

Brewers, Birds Battle Tonight

Winners of Series to Represent A. A. in Little World Series

Columbus, O.—(AP)—A jubilant flock of Red Birds swooped down on their home roost last night, ready to battle the Milwaukee Brewers for the right to represent the American association in the little world series. The Columbus baseball team, just returned from Minneapolis, where it trounced the Millers, was confident the final Shaugnessy playoff series, which opens here tonight, would end with the Red Birds on top, just as the 1937 pennant race did.

The fourth-place Brewers, however, champions in 1936, served notice a trip to the little world series would be to their liking when they trounced the second place Toledo Mud Hens in the initial playoff.

Milwaukee has been no pushover for Columbus this season. The Brewers won 10 of their 22 meetings with the Red Birds. Columbus here, but dropped eight and won only three in the Milwaukee park.

145, Kokomo, Ind., knocked out Buck Brown, 143, Dayton, (2).

Toronto—Henry Hook, 119, Indianapolis, outpointed Bob Yack, 117, Toronto, (10).

Washington—Eddie Hogan, 222, Waterbury, Conn., outpointed Marty Gallagher, 209, Washington, (10); Lou Giverson, 131, Washington, outpointed Frankie Covelli, 130, Brooklyn, (10).

U. W. Stadium Will Show New Seats and Press Coop

MADISON—(AP)—After one day of hard drill, the University of Wisconsin football team starts on the home stretch today, with the first game just a few days away.

Harry Stuhldreher's Badgers open the 1937 season Saturday, Sept. 25, against a strong South Dakota State eleven jeweled with fine men, three deep in each position.

Numerous improvements have been made at Camp Randall Stadium, since the Badgers won the opener last year, 24-7, against the same Jackrabbits club. Wisconsin is favored to repeat its victory Saturday.

Most prominent of the new additions is the press box which has three rows of desks, seating 174 comfortably. Seven radio booths top the new structure, plus two large inside coops for photographers.

Flanking the huge addition, two railed-in porches, 60 feet in length, provide ample room for camera men who wish to work out of doors.

No longer will the newspapermen have to face the glaring sun, as was the case last year. The press box is located on the west side of the stadium, whereas it was atop the east stands last season. The "coop" is heated, and also has facilities for preparing lunches for visiting pressmen.

Have Tarpauntin
Another marked improvement is the $7,500 tarpaulin which will cover the gridiron, when it is not in use. The huge canvas blanket covers an area of 360 square feet and is 100 feet wide. It is cut into 16 sections, eight of them 30 feet by 30 and the remaining eight 30 by 180 feet. The sections are laced together with heavy cord. It forms a complete rain resisting cover. The smaller canvases can be used as coverings for the baseball diamonds. Sixteen huge culverts, upon which the tarpaulin is rolled, cover the athletic department's $700.

The department spent $87,000 this summer converting the steel bleachers on the west side of the field into concrete stands, which give Camp Randall a complete horseshoe, with a seating capacity of 35,000.

The newest thing in loud speaker systems is being installed on the north end of the field. Navy type trumpet speakers will convey the complete information of progress of the ball. Also, additional lavatory space has been constructed under the stands.

The green-keepers have the playing field in fine shape. A sure, springy footing is promised for all games played on Camp Randall this year.

However, Bob Reagan, line coach of the Badger squad stated several days ago, after inspecting the stadium: "All the grid-blankets in the world and the finest stadium mean nothing unless there is an interesting show on Saturday afternoons."

2nd Half Playoff
Sunday—Black Creek at Greenville Merchants.

Sunday, Oct. 2—Winner of above game at Shiocton for championship.

Black Creek and Greenville Merchants baseball teams will clash in the first game of the second half playoff in the Outagamie County league Sunday, just as planned several weeks ago. However, the game will be played on the Merchant diamond.

Plans for the series were discussed at a meeting of team managers and league officers last evening at the Y. M. C. A. with a coin being tossed all around the room to decide what would happen. The umpires will be Hoysman and Block.

The winner of the Creeker-Merchant game will play Shiocton at Shiocton on Oct. 2 for the round championship and the right to meet Dale for the league title on Oct. 9.

It was decided last night that the league will not honor seasonal passes for the playoff games. The passes were for regularly scheduled games, and as they have been completed, it was agreed the playoff games should be extra.

Appleton and Menasha Gridlers Tie, 0 and 0

The Donlinger Beer team Sunday battled to a 0 to 0 tie with the Menasha Wildcats at the Roosevelt field.

Although the Beers were out-weighted 20 pounds to the man, the team made up the disadvantage by some flashy blocking and tackling. Norman Burmeister was the star of the Appleton outfit and made several long gains. Porky led the Menashans in gains from scrimmage and was a bulwark on defense.

The two teams will tangle again next Sunday at Menasha. Teams in this vicinity looking for games with the Donlinger team should contact Chet Brandt, manager.

Sheboygan Loses Semifinal in Amateur Series

Beaten by Battle Creek 8-1; Faces Oklahoma Team Tomorrow

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—(AP)—Eight teams, half of the number which began play Saturday, remained in the "amateur world series" of the American Baseball congress today with only two of the group undefeated.

The undefeated pair are Battle Creek United Steel and Wire, which yesterday afternoon won its third straight contest at the expense of Sheboygan, Wis., 8 to 1, and Fresno, Calif., which downed Ada, Okla., 6 to 5. These were the first setbacks of the tournament for Sheboygan and Ada.

The tournament committee announced pairings for two games today and two more Wednesday. This afternoon St. Paul will meet Chicago and New York plays Atlanta.

New York eliminated Aberdeen, S. D., in the only morning game yesterday 1 to 1, while Atlanta pummeled out Battle Creek Postums, 10 to 4. Two defeats mean elimination.

Wednesday's pairings will bring together Sheboygan and Ada, and United Steel and Wire and Fresno. To keep Battle Creek Steel and Wire unbeaten, Jim Moran, lanky sinker ball and cross-fire expert, pitched a 3-hit game against Sheboygan to break a remarkable winning streak by the Wisconsin team.

Sheboygan had not been beaten since June and had a record of 16 consecutive victories, including two wins in the tournament here. Two errors in the ninth inning cost Moran a shutout.

The scores: Battle Creek 000 120 014—8 9 3 Sheboygan 000 000 001—1 3 5 Moran and Kandler; Degroff and Weiss.

Injured Hilltoppers Are Back at Practice

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—Candidates for the Marquette university football team were put through a stiff scrimmage on Monday afternoon yesterday, as potential first stringers returned to practice after several days absence due to injuries.

Capt. Ray Sonnenberg, right half, Johnny Maltch, quarterback, Ray Schoemann, center, Reggie Coldagelli, half back, Herb Anderson, veteran end, Dave Braden, fullback, were among those who recovered sufficiently from injuries to return to practice.

The varsity scored eight times during scrimmage, taking the ball from their own 20-yard line up the field.

ACTUAL SWINGING
Swing the clubhead. That is the keynote of Ernest Jones advice, who has had considerable success developing golfers. Jones emphasizes swinging the clubhead instead of hitting the ball, contending that the body and stick action will take place naturally once the true swing is learned or rather felt and then eliminate the danger of confusion, which arises from a multitude of do's and don'ts, which are the average beginner's usual lot.

To illustrate the real swing Jones uses a handkerchief weighted at one end. Because this is flexible it cannot be forced forward by leverage. In other words centrifugal force is necessary, the handkerchief must be actually swung or the hands will rise while the weighted end drags along beneath them. If the handkerchief is used in collaboration with the club correctly, both will be swung freely and smoothly through the backswing and down-swing arcs. The actual feel is one of outward pull similar to a weight at the end of a cord. Once the swinging feel is acquired the player begins to realize the potential power and accuracy that lies in the true swing which, with proper application, will manifest itself in lower scores.

Madison—That some of the progressive members of the legislature are beginning to worry about the platform promises they made in their campaigns last year is becoming evident as they gather in lobbies of legislative chambers to talk politics, and the prospects for next year.

One leading member of the assembly complained loudly to a group of newspapermen and others on the first day of the session last week about the failure of his party thus far to make good on the pledges which his ticket, "from top to bottom" made to the people last fall, especially in the matter of old age pensions and a works program.

The administration steered away from the numerous pension bills during the regular session of the legislature, with the result that a variety of them, all of them proposing increased benefits, died in the shuffle at adjournment. And Progressives in their official platform last fall advocated more adequate pensions.

As for a works program, Governor Phil since assuming office for his second term has been scrupulously silent, either because he believes such a program is no longer warranted by conditions in Wisconsin, or because he has found that federal funds are no longer to be had for the asking, and probably a combination of the two reasons.

As the governor's $3,000,000 relief appropriation undergoes the scrutiny of legislators and citizens generally at public hearings this week, there will be many opinions offered that relief is no longer necessary in the state.

To this line of thought, Prof. Edwin E. Witte, chairman of the University of Wisconsin economics department, member of the labor relations board, formerly Roosevelt consultant on social security, and once secretary of the state industrial commission, replies that Wisconsin is rapidly approaching a public welfare crisis.

"An article distributed by the state public welfare department recently, he declared: 'The real difficulty is not with the legislature, but with an almost complete lack of knowledge and much indifference on the part of the citizens.'"

"People cannot understand why there is still a great relief load when conditions are steadily improving. Least of all can they understand why they have difficulty in getting help for short-time, low-paying jobs, when there are so many unemployed."

"Today, when they employed no longer fear loss of their jobs, there is a widespread return to the old psychology that the people on relief are misfits and no-accounts, who need to be coerced by near starvation to put forth any effort on their own behalf."

"It is widely believed that if relief were left to the local authorities—that is, if there was little or no relief—the entire problem would disappear."

"Any study of the situation will disclose that this is not a correct analysis—that the withdrawal of state as well as federal aid is not a solution, but merely a method of increasing the burdens of the local taxpayers. The problem remains, however, of getting the mass of citizens to see this, and until at least the better informed citizens really understand the situation, it is too much to expect that the legislature will be willing to assume the responsibility for the statewide taxes for relief, through which, alone, the approaching crisis can still be avoided."

The French press has a "local boy makes good" angle ready to go to work on if Wisconsin's Governor LaFollette ever gets to the presidency of the United States, as many of his more ardent admirers are certain that he eventually will.

And if the chief executive of the state does become the chief executive of the nation, he will have his French logic to thank, according to L'Oeuvre, a Parisian left wing daily, which recently published an extensive account of the governor's public career.

The governor is "a probable candidate for the presidency of the United States," observed the paper in a trans-Atlantic forecast. "If that happens, it will be a descendant of French Protestants, who emigrated at the time of the Edict of Nantes, who would have a chance to be elected president."

And although it won't help him very much in the practical matter of getting votes, the governor is apparently assured of the paper's support if he ever decides to run for the presidency.

"It is therefore with common sense and logic—a hereditary French logic—that Gov. LaFollette

"Oh, I forgave him—he's been so busy making money that he forgot how to play."

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By Lichty

Paul C. Winner, just chosen by the civil commission to be acting director of the state bureau of personnel, and Lester R. Johnson, newly re-elected chief clerk of the Wisconsin assembly, are former students at Lawrence college.

Both later graduated from the University of Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin senate is moved with a more generous spirit than that which pervades its companion chamber across the corridor in the capitol.

Last week prescient legislators, who sees next year's campaign coming on, conceived a resolution to give each member an additional supply of letterheads and envelopes, nicely decorated with a cut of the capitol, the name of the legislator, his district and his committee, which would be handy to use as campaign correspondence to the folks back home.

In the senate the resolution was adopted, and each senator will receive a fresh box of paper and envelopes, but in a close vote the assembly refused to sanction the idea.

In the regular session each member received a box of 1500 sheets and envelopes.

Forensic Setup Change To Be Weighed at Meet

Principals and forensic coaches in the Fox River Valley Forensic conference will meet Saturday at Appleton High school to discuss a change in the forensic setup, according to H. H. Helbie, president of the conference.

At present three conference contests are held each year at various cities. The proposed change involves cutting the number of meetings to one or two general tournaments to cut traveling expenses.

About 30 representatives from East and West Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, Manitowish, Marinette and Appleton are expected to attend the meeting. Business sessions will open at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and a dinner will be held at the Northern hotel at noon.

Cut Old Maples On Shawano Street

City Utility Removes Trees To Make Way for Power Lines

New London—Soft maple trees of 50 years standing on Shawano street are being cut down and removed by the city light and water department to make way for the rebuilding of the municipal utility's electric power lines on that street. Two huge specimens were cut near the William Ziemer home last week and one in front of the Charles Miller home may be removed this week.

The trees are objectionable to the light department because of interference with the wires but it is because their age and weakened condition make them a menace to the safety of the lines in stormy weather that they are being removed according to Ray Thomas, superintendent of the light and water plant.

The power lines on Shawano street are being completely rebuilt. New poles have been erected and cross bars attached the past week. New wires will be strung soon. A similar project has just been completed for several blocks on Dorset street.

The city street department crew under Superintendent Albert Gese is repairing old sidewalks on Shiocton street and replacing sections with new walks where necessary.

Council May Act On Proposed Pact With Union Group

Report on Agreement Offered by Municipal Workers to be Heard

Kaukauna—Consideration of an agreement presented at the August 17 meeting of the council and referred at that time to a committee will form one of the items of the council tonight. The proposed agreement was presented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipality Employees, Kaukauna local 130. The committee selected to study the agreement and recommend its views to the council is composed of aldermen Cooper, Alger and Ludeke.

In the original agreement given to the council eight provisions are laid down which the union wishes adopted as rules by which any disputes between workers and the city will be settled.

The agreement asks the council to affirm its willingness to "recognize and meet with a duly elected committee" from the union in all future negotiations with employees.

Seniority Rights—It is further asked in part four of the agreement that employees seniority rights begin at the time their pay started, and the system of promotion through seniority and merit the union wishes installed is described.

A request for a weeks' vacation without loss of pay is part six of the agreement, followed by the rule that in case of an employee's being dismissed he shall return to work within one week without loss of seniority and shall work until final disposition of his case is made by the council.

Part eight reads "the city agrees the employees shall have the right to select a committee to meet with the heads of the department and budget committee to work out a satisfactory wage agreement."

It is not known whether a new police pension plan will be brought before the council.

At their last meeting the council voted down a resolution of Alderman T. E. Seggelink's abolishing the pension ordinance of 1928, whereas in the meeting previous to that they had approved a motion of Seggelink's, differing only in words from his ordinance of last meeting, repealing the ordinance.

Kaukauna Eleven Begins Drills for Clintonville Tilt

Coach Little to Stress Blocking in Practices This Week

Kaukauna—In a brief talk before Monday's practice, Coach Paul E. Little explained the misuses of the Shawano game to the players, and then supervised the first of four hard workouts planned for the week. Each starting player was told of his faults last Saturday and given instructions on their correction.

One of the departments of the game in which Kaukauna will work intensively this week will be blocking, in which they were particularly weak Saturday. In addition efforts will be made to get more drive from the backfield, and especially from the left halfback position.

In commenting on the players' games at Shawano, Little praised the work of several players. All had one or more faults, however, and this week's work will be the most important of the year.

"By Wednesday we'll know whether we're going anywhere at all this year," Little said. "If the players get out there and do their best, which is quite a bit better than they did Saturday, we'll knock down more than one team before the season is over," he added.

The team emerged from the Shawano game in good physical condition, with no one having injuries sufficient to keep him from practice. Four days of hard drill will be followed by a light signal practice Friday, with Kaukauna facing Clintonville, losers to Menasha by five touchdowns last Friday night, Saturday afternoon at Kaukauna.

BIRD'S ROOFS

Dad Says—
"The roof makes such a difference"

Of course John, we want a roof that's awfully good looking but first we want to be sure that it's absolutely weatherproof and won't catch fire from chimney sparks. Dad put Bird's Paroid Roofing on his farm buildings twenty years ago and it's still good.

He suggests we go to the Bird Dealer here and look at the Hex-Twins Bird & Son make. They will last for years—they are fire resisting and—they are Beautiful.

FLAME TRAIL

SYNOPSIS: Kay Grandon impulsively hires Ted Gaynor, a jobless puncher. He helps her fight Josh Hastings, a "friendly" neighbor who wants Kay and her ranch. Ted and Scrap Johnson, a cowhand who molests Kay, shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings sneaks up and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. Ted is arrested and tried for murder, but Kay stops the trial by technical protest. Ted escapes and rescues Kay from Hastings' cellar lockup. Then he goes to aid Marion, who saved his life with her nursing. Her father, a firebug, has disappeared; Ted hunts him. A forest fire rages as Kay reaches Marion's cabin.

Chapter 48
FIRE CLAIMS ITS OWN

I N a few broken words, Marion related how her father had come back after his mysterious absence, and how she had discovered that he was the firebug that everyone was hunting.

"He didn't know what he was doing," she moaned. "For a whole year he hasn't been himself. He collapsed, after he got back, and for several days he was as helpless as a baby. Then, he suddenly began raving, and declaring that he must get back to his fire. It was awful! He talked as though the fire was a child! Again and again, he would say, 'It's calling me! It needs me! Let me go!'"

Marion buried her face in her hands, and Kay put her arms around her in silent sympathy.

"Time after time," Marion went on, "he'd try to get up and go, but he was too weak. I counted on that to save him until his frenzy should pass over. But one evening, when I had gone out for water, I came back to find him gone."

"How terrible! What did you do?"

"I acted like a crazy thing. I guess," Marion answered, "I ran in every direction, calling until my voice went completely. I never dared get too far from here, for fear he would come back and not find me. After searching all night, I gave up. There was nothing to do but wait. It was the next night that Ted appeared after I had about decided that I would just head out at random for the fire. I'd gathered a general idea of where it was, and I was crazy enough to do anything. Ted brought me back to my senses, and said he would go after my father himself, if I would promise to wait here. It's too soon to expect news, I suppose, but it's terrible, waiting without word of any kind."

For some time, the two girls clung together, the thought of each filled with foreboding for her own loved one.

"Don't you think we ought to go and try to find them?" Kay said at last.

Marion shook her head. "Terrible as it is to wait, I'm sure it's the only thing to do. I promised, and somehow I have faith that Ted will get back. They might need our help desperately, and if we started out, we'd be almost sure to miss them."

"I'll stay with you, then," Kay declared. "I promised Ted to stay in hiding from Josh Hastings until the trial, and I can do that here as well as anywhere. Then if... I mean, when," she corrected herself with a catch in her voice, "he comes back, I'll be able to see him before he gives himself up."

Marion's face lighted up with the first real smile Kay had seen on it. "Ted told me how wonderful you were," she said, "and I guess he was about right."

Kay gave a violent dissenting shake of her head, but her heart sang with reckless happiness that not even her fears could dispell.

Duty Despic Risk

When Ted left Marion on his quest for her father, he pointed down the south ridge, heading for the faint distant glow that illumined the southern sky. It was a cloudy night, but no stars were needed to guide him to the fire.

He did not minimize to himself the danger of going into the fire fighting region, where he would be almost sure to run across someone who would recognize him. But he never questioned his duty in the matter.

Marion had saved his life. It was up to him to save her father if he could, without regard to his own safety. There was a slender chance that in the excitement of the fire his presence would pass unheeded, if not unnoticed, and it was up to him to do his best for Marion.

Obviously, the strength of his position in the trail would be greatly diminished if he was captured, instead of giving himself up, but that was no longer the main concern.

Public Has Right To Know Works of Bank, Pickard Says

Neenah Banker Describes Public Relations at Group Meetings

Neenah—The public has a right to have the mystery of banking cleared as well as the right to know the simple fundamentals of what a bank is and does for its community. N. Pickard, Neenah, vice president of the Wisconsin Bankers' association, informed bankers at a group meeting of the association Monday at the Alpine resort, Egg Harbor, of the public relations program formulated so that confidence in banking in the future will rest more on fact and less on blind faith. The executive vice president of the Neenah National Manufacturers' bank made this statement in the first of a series of talks to give different group meetings of the association. His second talk was delivered today at Wisconsin Rapids, and Wednesday he will give his talk at Cross Lake. The fourth of the series will be given at Baraboo Thursday and the fifth at Beaver Dam Friday.

Pickard said that the association proposes to stress the right of the press to know that the public wishes to know about the banking business and will urge bankers to cooperate. Cooperate With Press Bankers will be urged to cooperate with the press in the preparation of more financial news of a helpful character, and "we shall expect and encourage bankers throughout the state to tell the story of banking whenever requested by schools, churches, agricultural and civic organizations," he added.

"During the banking crisis and some time after, bankers, those in the business, were so busy saving what they could from the wreckage that they had neither energy nor time to tell their side of the story. The banker hoped for the best while public confidence in banking slid to the depths. Now that the skies have cleared, however, bankers are reflecting on the past and are working out a constructive program," Pickard explained.

"This program concerns itself with building a better relations between the banker and the public he serves. Public opinion is something to reckon with, and that is why this matter of relations with the public has assumed such an important role," the banker pointed out.

Semi-Public Business Mr. Pickard explained that public relations is particularly important in the banking industry, since banking is a semi-public business. Bankers operate largely with the funds of their depositors, and they are expected to take care of their borrowing customers, earn a profit for their stockholders and serve their communities wisely.

"Public relations work is not merely placing the affairs of a corporation before the public in the most favorable light but shaping the affairs of the corporation so that when placed before the public they will be approved," according to the banker.

"We have recently organized a definite public relations department in the headquarters office of the Wisconsin Bankers' association, and it is the plan of this department to intensify the interest of bankers in the general subject of customer and public relations."

Deal With Individuals "Bank clerks will be taught that it is not enough to deal with the figures on our ledgers and balance the books, but to value and appreciate the living figures before their windows and desks—the customers of the bank who make salaries and dividends possible."

Neenah Gridders Rehearsing for Messmer Battle

Christoph Terms Performance at New London "Only Fair"

Neenah—With one obstacle overcome, the Neenah High school football eleven faces another rough battle this coming Saturday when Messmer High school, Milwaukee, sends its eleven to invade the Redmen's gridiron.

The Red Rockets skinned the first hurdle with a 7 to 0 victory last Saturday when they defeated New London in the opening game of the season, also a Northwestern Wisconsin conference tilt.

The conflict with Messmer will be the Redmen's first home game this year. Coach George Christoph was not too well pleased with his team's showing Saturday afternoon at New London, and he termed their performance as only fair. He said that they had at least three opportunities to score but they failed to capitalize on them.

The Neenah coach commented favorably on the work of Dodge, Borenz and Schmidt in the line, and Frank Haertl and Kettering in the backfield.

Scrimmage Wednesday A light workout was held on the practice field Monday afternoon with serious training for the Messmer fracas resuming this afternoon. The coach will send his troupe through a scrimmage session Wednesday night.

After Monday afternoon's drill a skill session was held during which the mentor pointed out the team's weaknesses evident during the first game. Correction of these weaknesses were to be stressed during this afternoon's practice.

Caldermen Will Meet Milwaukee Team Under Lights

Menasha Eleven Drilling For First Home Game Friday

Menasha—Two outstanding teams in their respective conferences will be meeting Friday night at the Butte des Morts field when Milwaukee East Division high school gridgers play the Menasha high school team.

The Orange teams have won the city championship for five consecutive years. The first four were undisputed while last year they were held to a tie for top honors. Coach B. E. Hecox has won six city championships during his nine years as coach at East. This year he has six letterman back for the 1937 season. In their opening game the Orange team showed a powerful attack, featuring the leather lugging of Ashley Anderson, quarterback, and George Truchan, fullback. There also was effective blocking to pave the way for the ball carriers.

Menasha high school likewise has a creditable record under Coach N. A. Calder, having lost only five games in the past six years. The Bluejays had championship teams in 1931 and 1933 and rank at the top of the Northwestern Wisconsin conference in 1934 and lost during the past 10 years.

In 1932 the Bluejays lost only one game; in 1934 they had only 8 points scored against them in the entire season, losing one game. A year later they again lost only one game with seven points scored against them during the season. Last year they dropped two games while this year they got off to a fine start by dropping Clintonville, 31 to 0.

The Menasha squad yesterday drilled on getting their shift down to perfection. Although the Menasha line held Clintonville to practically no gain, Coach Calder pointed out mistakes and had the men reviewing their blocking assignments. Passers also came in for a lengthy session. Westberg, a fullback, is being shifted to a halfback post to understudy Bucky.

Possible Y. W. C. A. Work Discussed at Conference

Church, Free of Debt, To Hold Celebration

Neenah—About 50 persons attended the Twin City Y. W. C. A. fall meeting and setting up conference Monday evening at the Y and participated in group discussions on association problems and purposes.

Brien were named as members of the nominating committee.

In the group discussions, of which there were three, discussion of emphasis upon primary aspects of the program, recognizing the intimate relationship of each to the association's Christian purpose and endeavoring to make the terms of expression consistent with the objective of building an educational and recreational program for the development and enrichment of the individual as well as working as a Christian social force for a better society, was featured.

Suggest Projects Immediate concern of the Twin City Y.W.C.A. were suggestions that there is real need for supervised recreation for boys and girls in high school and just out of high school, for sponsorship of a city-wide sunrise service, for projects in music, dancing and craft and more representation in Y membership itself.

Mrs. Nathan Bergstrom, chairman of the membership committee and a member of the Y board, suggested that membership in the Y was not built up as it might be and asked, "Is it because of lack of interest in what we do? Is it because of inadequate publicity? Is it because of lack of invitation? Is it because of failure to forget their personal responsibility?"

Brisk discussion on possible programs for the Y in keeping with the association purpose and objectives was held in each of the groups as members talk about work relationships, social responsibility, religion emphasis, service, finance, administration, public affairs, youth problems, and public education.

Board members of the Y and the general secretary, Miss Laura Huber, plan to study the discussion suggestions and formulate a program along those lines.

Badger Utilities To Pay $7,800,000 In Taxes This Year

Rise in State Average. Assessed Valuation Causes $400,000 Increase

Madison—A rise of one tenth mill in the statewide average of property taxes and a substantial increase in the assessed valuation of their holdings will cost Wisconsin utilities and additional $410,058 in taxes this year.

The total levy as determined by the state tax commission was fixed today at $7,861,974, compared with $7,451,916 in 1936. This amount will be paid by 138 municipal and privately owned utilities. The tax commission has jurisdiction only over those companies and plants operating in more than one municipality.

The commission computed the aggregate value of the properties at $338,567,800, an increase of $3,775,550 over 1936.

The basis of taxation upon this valuation is the average rate of local property tax levied in the 71 counties this year. This rate, the commission found was 23.2 mills. In 1936 it was 22.2.

The utility taxes are due on the first of December and will be distributed during that month as follows: 15 per cent to the state, 20 per cent to the counties and 65 per cent to the towns, cities and villages.

Rail Operators High

Biggest taxpayers are the firms which operate both railway and power systems. Properties of the five companies in this group were assessed at $229,750,000 and their taxes fixed at $53,344,772. They will absorb $304,690 of the tax increase, or about three fourths. These companies are:

Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, assessment, $127,000,000, taxes, $29,498,927; Mississippi Valley Light Service company, assessment, $1,500,000, taxes, $34,829; Wisconsin Gas and Electric company, assessment, $24,000,000, taxes, $557,277; Wisconsin Power and Light company, assessment, $42,250,000, taxes, $981,040; Wisconsin Public Service corporation, assessment, $35,000,000, taxes, $812,696.

The assessment against each of these companies, excepting the Mississippi Valley firm, was increased about $100,000 over 1936.

Sixty four privately owned light, heat and power companies will pay taxes totalling $2,418,724. While this is $82,929 more than their 1936 taxes, their assessments, which were $104,166,000, represented a decrease of $780,500. The higher tax rate was responsible.

The commission lowered the valuation of the Milwaukee Gas Light company from $26,000,000 to $24,000,000, reducing the firm's taxes from $578,682 to $557,277 as compared with last year.

Higher Assessments

Firms whose assessments and taxes were increased substantially were the Lake Superior District Power company and the Northern States Power company.

The Lake Superior company will pay $145,142 on an assessment of $6,250,000—$28,275 more than in 1936. The Northern States company will pay $568,687 on an assessment of $24,500,000—an increase of $45,658. In each case the utility's assessment was boosted $1,000,000.

The 65 municipal light, heat and power companies will pay total taxes of $22,565 on a valuation of $971,800. This represents an increase of $2,295 in the total tax bill and $106,050 in assessments.

The Shawano municipal water and electric department was listed on the records for the first time with an assessment of $15,000 and taxes of $348.30. The Manitowish utility was taxed $116 on an assessment of $500.

Kaukauna Pays $4,000

Kaukauna, which has one of the largest municipal plants, will pay $4,063 on a valuation of $175,000. Value of the plant was increased from $100,000 to $120,000 and the tax bill from $2,225 to $2,418.

The assessment of the Marshfield water and light department was increased from $55,000 to $60,000 and its taxes from $1,224.14 to $1,393.19.

The Two Rivers Water and Light department, which was not on the 1936 roll, was assessed at $5,000 and taxed $116.10.

Valuation of the Wisconsin Rapids water and light company on properties increased from $70,000 to $100,000 and its taxes from $2,931 to $3,000.83.

The Wisconsin Valley Improvement company, which controls flowage on the Wisconsin River will pay taxes of $39,473, an increase of $17,216 over last year. Its assessment was raised from $1,000,000 to $1,700,000.

The Coups and Flambeau Improvement company, another flowage control agency, retained the old assessment, $2,000,000 but its tax bill was increased from $44,314 to $45,432.

sideration. He reflected bitterly that nothing much mattered, anyway, now that he knew his love for Kay could never come to anything, blighted as it was, by the knowledge of her treachery.

Marion, at least, had been true, so he owed all his effort to her. He could hear again Marion's indignant incredulity when he had told her of Kay's betrayal. But her violent repudiation of Kay as being unworthy of him was cold comfort, pushed away by the thought that a better idea of the extent of the conflagration now, and he marveled how it could ever have had such a start. Marion's father must have spent several days penetrating to the spot where he had first set the blaze. The place had been chosen with diabolical cleverness, as far as remoteness was concerned.

At last Ted reached the final ridge but one that separated him from the fire, and he drew up with an exclamation at the magnificence and terror of the wholesale destruction.

It must have been three miles or so away with an intervening lower ridge that from this point of vantage in no way obstructed the view. Even at this distance, the whole scene was lighted up, and the air was filled with smoke and the bitter sweet smell of burning pines.

Ted could see where they were fighting it on the western flank, and trying to restrict the front by pinching it out. It was a practically hopeless task, as the fire had undoubtedly originated as a crown fire, and they always proved almost impossible to put out.

For the moment, the wind had died down, and it almost looked as though the impossible had a chance of achievement. The immediate problem for Ted, however, was not the putting out of the fire, but the finding of Marion's father. Knowing how Old Man Howell was carried away by his frenzied rage, Ted hadn't a doubt but that he was somewhere in the thick of the fire fighting, gloating with all a madman's cunning, while he seemed to be helping to put it out.

The question was, which flank had he chosen? Deciding that the western one seemed more spectacular, Ted headed down the slope, and plunged into the canyon that divided it from the lower intervening ridge.

He worked his way along, urging his mount in spite of his increasing restiveness around windfalls and up the slope, slippery with pine needles. He tried to figure out how long it would be before this, too, would be ablaze.

A Fatal 'Blaze-Fire'

Finally Ted topped the intervening ridge and paused again, estimating the blaze to be at least a 50- or 75-mile. He decided to leave his mount here. Swinging to the ground, he tethered his horse to a tree and walked to a bare ledge of rock from which he could see the whole panorama.

As he watched, he suddenly saw a blaze spring up not half a mile away, and a long distance from the main conflagration. He muttered a horrified oath, realizing he was witnessing that rare and terrible phenomenon, a "blaze-fire." Generated from the heat around it, a dry part will sometimes explode and burst into flames. From this kind of fire, no one ever gets out to tell the tale.

Recognizing that this new development would probably eventually doom the ridge on which he was standing, Ted nevertheless could not resist the temptation to run down for a nearer view. There also was the chance that he could be of assistance to anyone who might have been caught on the outskirts of the sudden explosion.

As he ran down the slope, he saw, outlined against the flames, a man stagger a few steps and then pitch headlong to the ground. He raced to him, bent over the prostrate form and instantly recognized Marion's father from the description she had given. The gray hair and bushy eyebrows were singed and he was badly burned about the face and hands.

Opening his eyes, he stared straight at Ted, his labored breathing coming in slower and slower gasps. Suddenly, with an incredible display of strength, he pushed Ted aside and rose to his feet. He faltered for a moment, then fell with a crash to the ground.

One look at the staring eyes, and Ted knew that his quest was ended. He stood still a moment, gazing at the pathetic figure at his feet. Should he try to take the body back to Marion?

With a shudder, he turned away. No, it would be cruel to take back that body, burned and disfigured as it was! Better for Marion to picture her father as she had always known him, and to think of him as having perished in the element that, in his madness, had held such a compelling lure for him.

How much better it was, after all, than to have him live, and face either imprisonment or an insane asylum for life! Ted looked down again at all that was left of Marion's father, lost for a moment in musing on the strangeness of life and death, and the fitness of the end that had overtaken this poor old man.

MAYOR GOES THIRSTY

Denver—(4)—There were 56,000,000 gallons of water all around Mayor Ben Stapleton, so it wasn't an unreasonable demand when he asked for a drink.

"Just plain water," he said when the waiter started pouring a cup of coffee.

"I'm sorry, boss, but we just ain't got no water," the waiter replied. "You all will have to drink coffee."

The incident occurred at a dedication banquet in Denver's new filtering plant. There are no connections in the plant where a thirsty man can get a drink.
